Americans Win 1st. Round Of Terrific Engagement, Knox Asserts with Pride

Marines and Army Hold Every Inch of Ground They Ever Controlled, Secretary Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—With pride in his voice, Navy Secretary Knox declared today that the Japanese fleet has "retired from the scene" of the Solomons battle and that the first round of the struggle had ended with American forces on Guadalcanal "occupying every inch of the ground we ever controlled."

Some of the Japanese warships, which have been supporting the foe's all-out drive to wrest the vital airfield on Guadalcanal from American marines and army troops, have gone back to their bases, Knox said. He did not divulge where the others have gone.

"We are in as complete control of the situation in Guadalcanal as we ever have been," he said at a press conference.

Knox Asks Caution
Knox stressed, however, that he did not want to disseminate too much optimism. It was obvious that despite the withdrawal of Japanese warships, there was no telling when they might be back to support a renewed drive. In view of this uncertainty, the task of supplying the fighting troops on Guadalcanal was a problem still receiving major attention in unofficial discussions here.

So far, however, supplies are still reaching the island, Knox said, although he declined to say in what manner. He declared "there has been no interruption in our communications."

After warning against over-optimism, Knox added:

"But I do have a great feeling of pride in the way our men have met the onslaught in the Tulagi-Guadalcanal area and the skill with which these forces have been handled. They have done a superb job."

Racketeer's Fate

Up To Roosevelt

President May Be Asked To Pave Way to Execute Him

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—Upon President Roosevelt, it appeared tonight, rests the ultimate decision whether Racketeer Louis (Lepke) Buchalter shall be executed for murder or continue a 44-year-to-life sentence for other crimes.

New York's court of appeals—highest in the state—affirmed today, 4 to 3, Lepke's first degree murder conviction in the 1936 slaying of Joseph Rosen, a Brooklyn storekeeper, and identical convictions of two henchmen, Emanuel (Mendy) Weiss and Louis Capone.

Death is mandatory for first degree murder in New York.

$25,000 Limit on Salaries Hurts Man Who Works, Sen. George Says

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance committee declared today that the $25,000 limitation on net salaries would cause the treasury to lose tax would boost administrative costs and penalize the man who works for his income.

In sweeping criticism of the salary order, which was issued by Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes and countersigned by President Roosevelt, George told reporters he believed it would "work a terrific disadvantage on the fellow who is working for something as against the fellow who is just sitting and cutting coupons."

The order would limit salaries to $25,000, after federal taxes, life insurance commitments and fixed obligations, but would not affect income from investments.

George said he was satisfied the treasury would lose, rather than gain, in tax collections by the move.

This would be true, he said, because the money that otherwise might have been paid to individuals

Russian Forces Retreat Again in Nalchik Section

Driven Back to Military Pass in Caucasus, Moscow Says

Germans Lose 1,100 Men in Fighting in Stalingrad

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Saturday, Oct. 31. (AP)—Russian troops defending the approaches to the Georgian military pass through the Caucasus mountains have been forced to retreat again in the Nalchik area, but the Red army defending Stalingrad killed 1,100 more Nazis in a successful stand yesterday in the ruins of that Volga river city.

The midnight Soviet communique stressed the numerical superiority of the enemy forces attacking on the Nalchik plains toward Ordzhonikidze, gateway to the high snow-banked military pass. It was the third consecutive Russian retreat there.

Dispatches said a formidable mass of German forces, including a bombing squadron shifted from Stalingrad, was employed in the plateau area leading upward into the Caucasus mountain range.

Before retreating to a new defense line, the Russians said, their troops exterminated one Nazi infantry company and disabled two tanks.

Reds Advance Slowly

In the west along the Black Sea coast the Russians reported the Red army had "advanced slowly" after a two-day exhausting fight in which 1,000 Axis troops were slain northeast of Tuapse. The Germans now have gone over to the defense in this area, the communique said.

Inside Stalingrad the Red Army was said to have destroyed or disabled eight Nazi tanks, fourteen mortar and artillery batteries and eighteen planes in addition to killing 1,100 Germans. No further Nazi advances were conceded in the shell-torn factory area in the northern part of the city.

Soviet troops attacking the Nazi flank northwest of Stalingrad broke into Nazi trenches, wiped out an entire company in hand-to-hand fighting, and captured one gun, two mortars, five machineguns, a radio transmitter and two ammunition trucks, the communique said.

Britain Starting To Take Offensive, Sec. Eden Asserts

Growing Strength Evident on All Fronts, He Declares

GLASGOW, Oct. 30 (AP)—The defensive phase of the war is drawing to a close and Great Britain is beginning to take the offensive, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today in an address at Glasgow.

The growing strength of Britain, he said, is manifest in Egypt, in western Europe where the "RAF has taken command over the shore of France and beyond," and in northern Italy which is feeling the sting of repeated air raids.

The conflict, the foreign secretary said, has taken on a "new character" which he said is as clear as "writing on the wall."

Eden's reference to the progress of the war was an incidental passage in a long speech to the Scottish Unionist (Conservative) Conference in which he dealt with the problem of dealing with Germany after the war.

Bad News For Nazis
The RAF, Eden said, is administering to Germany "a dose infinitely heavier than the Luftwaffe ever gave us. And let me give you this assurance—the dose will be repeated throughout the winter, and it will be intensified."

"We have command over the western shores of France, and beyond. Even by day our RAF can fly to Italy and bomb Milan and Mussolini. This is a superb achievement, even for the RAF."

Eden's remarks were made against a background of many evidences that the British are shifting to offensive tactics, while the Axis is devoting increasing thought to energy to defense.

These four navy carrier bombing pilots belong to a squadron that destroyed 96 Jap planes in the air in the Solomons fighting. They are shown shortly after they arrived in Honolulu to await new assignments. They are (l. to r.): Lieut. F. O. Green, Lieut. David Richardson and Lieut. Walter Clark. ## ALLIED BOMBERS DAMAGE JAP SHIPS IN ATTACK ON BUIN

Hit Aircraft Carrier, Warship and Cruiser and Possibly a Battleship in Extensive Raid

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Saturday, Oct. 31. (AP)—Allied bombers probably damaged a Japanese aircraft carrier, scored a hit on a warship described as either a cruiser or a battleship, probably damaged still another cruiser and left an unidentified ship ablaze in a raid on Buin, the high command announced today.

The raid was the—in as many days on the Japanese-held harbor on the southern tip of Bougainville Island in the Northern Solomons. It was by far the most damaging aerial blow announced recently in attempts to checkmate an all-out assault of the Japanese on Guadalcanal to the southeast of Buin.

Allied medium and heavy bombers delivered three attacks last night on shipping concentrations at Buin. Twenty-seven tons of explosives were dropped on the Japanese vessels.

"The first wave of heavy bombers scored two hits on a heavy cruiser or battleship," the communique said, "and placed other bombs very close to a light cruiser and an airplane carrier, probably causing extensive damage."

Social Activities For Plane Spotters

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 30 (AP)—Social activities were planned today to sustain lagging interest among 600 volunteers in eleven Washington county aircraft warning spotter stations.

James F. Omph of Hancock, civil director of the Sixth Maryland army aircraft warning service district, said there had been a slump in volunteers to man the stations due to lack of activities.

The Sixth district covers Washington, Carroll and Frederick counties.

Omph complimented the Williamsport spotter station, where he said volunteers had not lost an hour since Pearl Harbor.

He reported there were seventeen stations in Frederick county, with 1,000 spotters; eight Carroll county stations, with 400 volunteers, although the Carroll county post is not fully organized.

Train Stopped in Desert To Start Mother To See Son Reported Killed

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Charles Moore had received so many unhappy telegrams she was almost afraid to open the one the conductor handed her as her train sped eastward carrying her toward a reunion with her parents in Carthage, S. D.

Previous telegrams had informed her that her son was wounded, missing, killed in action.

This telegram said simply: "Gene is home. Come back. Love, Charles."

Franklin she sought the conductor. "I've got to get back," she said. "My son is home safe."

She asked the conductor to stop the train. He did.

A brakeman flagged down a west-bound train and to the cheers of passengers—news travels fast on a train—she transferred in the middle of the Nevada desert.

McKeldin, O'Connor Concentrating in Baltimore City

Both Speak There after Swings through the Counties

Governor Makes Light of Opponent's Income Tax Pledge

(By The Associated Press)

The two candidates for governor in Maryland concentrated their efforts last night in Baltimore city after making swings through the state, both Governor O'Connor and Republican gubernatorial candidate Theodore R. McKeldin attending more than half a dozen meetings each.

The Democratic incumbent, who has campaigned on the state's financial record during his administration and the accumulation of a $10,000,000 surplus, reiterated again pledges to reduce the state income tax, cut the real estate tax still further and adjust salaries of state employees.

At the same time he repeated criticism of McKeldin's pledge to eliminate the state income tax, asking:

Discusses Income Tax

"What would they have in its place to meet the state's financial needs? Would it be a sales tax like the Republican administration saddled on the state before? Would they license pinball machines like they did four years ago? Would they attempt to legalize a tax on bookmaking as they did that? x x x or would they do as they did on the $2 (automobile) tag promise—make not the slightest effort to keep their promise?"

O'Connor added that "what the Republicans promised before and didn't deliver is not nearly as interesting, however, as what they didn't promise and did deliver. They didn't promise to cripple the state financially, or to ruin its credit, or to let road construction slide, or to give the people of Maryland a sales tax. But once they were in office they proceeded to hang all these millstones around the necks of the people of our state."

O'Connor spoke at eight meetings and McKeldin's headquarters said he visited nine.

The state Republican headquarters also reported that McKeldin had visited every county in the state and would concentrate his (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Higgins Given Order To Build 1,200 Airplanes

Ship Builder Will Turn Out Army Cargo Planes in Volume

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—The American and Canadian governments today ordered production of paper and paper products, including newsprint, frozen at the average of the past six months.

The production level thus fixed by joint action of the War Production Board and the Canadian Wartime Prices and the Trade Board is about eighty-seven percent of the industry's theoretical capacity, trade sources reported, but the Canadian industry has been operating at much less than eighty-seven percent of capacity.

Only the First Step

WPB declared its expectation that "further curtailment would have to be made in the near future" to release for labor, power, transportation and materials for war purposes. The order, it added, is only "the first step toward a balanced program of further reduction and concentration of the industry on an international basis."

As output diminishes, WPB said, controls over distribution, inventories and use of paper will be set up on a similar international basis.

Representatives of the paper industry said no allocation among (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

American Pilots Shoot Down 22 Enemy Planes, Lose only Two in Egypt

MIDWAY BATTLE HERO

Take Prominent Part in Renewed Offensive in Western Desert; Fight Like Veterans

By DON WHITEHEAD

CAIRO, Oct. 30 (AP)—American pilots have shot down twenty-two enemy planes and lost but two in the renewed Allied offensive in the western Egyptian desert.

In just five days, the United States desert task force has destroyed fourteen Messerschmitt 109s, four Macchi-202s and four Fiat-CR42s.

Many thought the Americans might be too green for the more experienced German and Italian fliers.

This idea, however, has been dispelled swiftly by the 22-3 victory ratio and today the chief of the United States fighter command in the middle east, Brig.-Gen. A. C. Strickland, said this of his boys:

Commander Praises Men

"They have the stuff. They know the advantages and limitations of the airplanes they fly. They don't try to fight Messerschmitts at the altitudes where the Messerschmitts are superior, but lure them down to our best altitude and fly rings around them and shoot them to pieces."

General Strickland said the American successes in support of the British, South African and Australian pilots was due to "courage, adaptability and flying technique."

Lieut. Lyman Middleditch of Highlands, N. J., who ran his string to four with three victories in a single combat, is the leading American pilot in the desert. It took him three years to pass the strict medical examination and get into the air corps.

"My blood pressure wouldn't get together with my pulse," he explained.

American Bomb Attacks Prevent Advance by Japs

Superiority of Our Air Forces Puts Enemy on Defensive

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

A quantitative as well as qualitative superiority of American aviation in the Guadalcanal battle area appears to be at least one reason why the Japanese fleet covering Nipponese forces ashore "has retired from the scene."

Secretary of the Navy Knox, making this statement to a press conference, said of enemy craft that there "is no active operation on the surface near the Solomons." This seemed to confine his reference to the fleet supporting the operations of Japanese land forces, not to whatever units of enemy naval power that may be roaming other waters of the Southwest Pacific.

But the fact that the inshore operations of the Japanese navy in the Solomons zone had halted indicated that the steady hammering of American navy, marine and army planes had brought results, even if temporary.

Jap Ships May Return

There remains the possibility, perhaps even probability, that the Japanese surface force will return. But in the meantime the Japanese army on Guadalcanal is on its own, without naval guns and aviation to support it.

It appears to be agreed in press discussions of the meagre reports furnished by the navy to date that the enemy enjoys a numerical but (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Strong British Forces Drive Deep Into Enemy Lines on Alamein Front

By FRANK L. MARTIN

WITH BRITISH ARMED FORCES IN THE EGYPTIAN DESERT

Oct. 29. (Delayed).—(AP) Strong Allied forces drove deep into German defenses on the Alamein front last night, destroying many enemy tanks and capturing several enemy positions.

Other units of the British Eighth army were mopping up newly gained territory after pushing forward west of the gap cut through by the Allied offensive yesterday.

Many strong positions and many prisoners have been taken in the last twenty-four hours. Numerous tanks have been knocked out of action and British forces have advanced steadily.

In the light of a half moon, the British attack last night started at 10 p. m. our troops, under heavy barrage, crept forward yard by yard through enemy barbed-wire and stone defenses, taking anti-tank and other guns with them.

Hand-to-hand fighting broke out frequently when enemy gun positions were overrun. One after another, the enemy strong points fell as British troops encircled the defenders, shouting as they charged forward.

Axis armored vehicles brought into the fight were blasted out of the way by anti-tank gun groups moving up with the infantry.

The attack lasted most of the night.

The covering artillery shelled enemy heavy gun positions far back of the lines in an effort to keep them silent. The barrage guns from a distance look like hundreds of campfires scattered along the desert.

The sky was filled with British and enemy signal lights flashing red, white and blue lights.

During yesterday's fighting west of an Allied wedge in the German lines, many enemy tanks were knocked out—the majority of them by British infantry.

One corporal alone halted eight advancing tanks.

Sec. Hull Urges World in Which Jew Can Be Free

Issues Statement to Group of Rabbis in Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (P) — Secretary of State Hull said today that "we must have a world in which Jews, like every other race, are free to abide in peace and in honor."

Hull's statement was made to a group of rabbis who presented to him a memorandum commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Balfour declaration pledging Britain's best endeavors to facilitate the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jews.

The memorandum called attention to the declaration made a quarter of a century ago, expressed appreciation of the efforts of the United States in behalf of the Jewish people and voiced the hope that this government would bear in mind in the future the aims embodied in the declaration.

The secretary observed that the Balfour declaration of November 2, 1917, had aroused wide attention in the United States and that this country had followed with interest and sympathy the work which had been done under it, in which he said American citizens played a useful role.

"This country was shocked and outraged," he added, "when tyranny and barbarity again commenced their march, at the brutality which was inflicted on certain races, and particularly on the Jewish populations of Europe. Apparently no form of abuse has been too great, and no form of torture or oppression too vile to be meted out to these populations by the Nazi despots. And, in taking this attitude toward the Jewish race, they have made it plain by concrete acts, that a like attitude would be taken against any race against whom they might invent a grievance."

"The Jews have long sought a refuge. I believe that we must have an even wider objective; we must have a world in which Jews, like every other race, are free to abide in peace and in honor."

"We meet today when the battle for freedom is being carried on in the east and in the west and every effort is concentrated on a successful issue. We can with confidence look forward to the victory when liberty shall lift the scourge of persecution and the might of the United Nations free mankind from the threat of oppression."

Navy Jayvees Whip Maryland Crew 20-0

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 30 (P) — The University of Maryland junior varsity put on a display of junior "T"-style football today, that failed to compare with Navy's Jayvee "T"-offense and went down 20-0 before three Sailor squads.

Aubrey Sells, starting Navy back ran over the Old Liners' goal for the initial tally in the first quarter, and the Sailors came through with one each in the second and third periods, with Frank Schettino kicking the extra point two of those times.

American Bomb

not qualitative advantage both at sea and in manpower on Guadalcanal island. But the matter of air power would seem to be something different. If Japan has rushed planes in force from China, Burma or elsewhere to the Solomon battle zone, they have not come into action effectively.

Available information does not indicate they have been able to match the American air effort either in numbers or range of action. Army-marine success in beating off repeated Japanese attacks on Guadalcanal and quickly restoring any dent in the lines defending its vital air fields is in part traceable to that.

There is another factor on Guadalcanal tending to even actual battle odds ashore. The defenders, although cramped in an area roughly six miles or less square, have the advantage of short interior lines. Japanese communications with their reinforcement and supply beachhead, ten miles westward along the island coast, are not good.

Jap Supply Problem Serious

A substantial portion of the total force available on the island to the enemy commander must be continuously engaged along those supply lines. That is particularly true of the southern face of the American defense front. To get men, guns, ammunition and food to that zone promptly in order to exploit a wedge forced into the American front before reserves come up to pinch it off is a difficult job.

There are no roads available to the foe, only jungle trails. The terrain of the island except along the southeast coastal plain is studded with mountain peaks. Their volcanic origin makes for cliffs and dead-end gorges, all concealed from actual survey by jungle growths.

The perimeter of the airfield held by the Americans is heavily overgrown. The whole terrain problem is so utterly inhospitable to tank attack that success in steaming the initial Japanese efforts to apply armored blitzkrieg technique to the problem is understandable.

The foe has urgent need of air domination to supplement his inferiority in warfare and men.

RUSSIAN INFANTRYMEN ATTACK NAZIS

Soviet troops charge forward, above, against German positions in the Mordok area of the Caucasus. Attacks such as these in the Caucasus and Stalingrad have stalled the Nazi military machine in its effort to penetrate deeper into Russia.

Halloween Youths Collect Scrap Metal

(By The Associated Press)

Doorbells rang in homes of Berlin, Md., last night and there was someone there when householders answered.

Unusual enough for Halloween, more unusual when the young doorbell ringers asked for donations of scrap metal or scrap rubber.

But that was the way—helping the scrap campaign—that Berlin youngsters had pledged to observe Halloween, and as young Earl Timmons said, "we won't ask for anything but scrap metal and rubber. Of course, if people offer us candy, that's different."

The youngsters also were pledged not to indulge in vandalism, or furniture or gate prying, or other pranks on the night of ghosts and goblins.

Russian Forces

180 Germans in a successful local fight against Axis counter-attacks. Hundreds of miles northwest of Stalingrad in the Voronezh hinge of the long front, the communists said, nearly 200 more Nazis had been killed and twenty-four enemy blockhouses and other equipment destroyed.

Despite three successive Russian withdrawals in the Naichik sector of the mid-Caucasus, there were no signs of immediate gravity to the main Red army forces in that area. Such retreats have been common at the resumption of Nazi offensives until the Russians could accumulate or shift their troops to meet the challenge.

Ordzhonikidze is sixty miles southeast of Naichik and at the northern end of the excellent Georgian military highway that winds through gorges in the 18,000-foot mountains to Tiflis.

Intense bombing and tank attacks spearheaded the German attacks to clear the way for infantry. The Russians noted the fifty-second bombing squadron at Naichik, which until mid-October was at Stalingrad. The fifty-first bombing squadron was reported moved from the central front to Stalingrad. Crack pursuit squadrons using the newest German planes also were thrown into the Naichik offensive.

Repulse Four Attacks

Armored forces attacked with up to 100 tanks to breach the Russian lines. Red Star said the army repulsed four attacks at a waterline before falling back before the inexorable pressure of superior forces. The waterline might have been the Ardun river, a tributary of the Terek along which the Russians for two months have halted a German offensive in the nearby Mordok region.

The limited number of roads confined the offensive to narrow sectors and exposed German concentrations to raids. Low-flying Stormovik planes attacked these groups sharply, and Red Star said they knocked out fifty German tanks in one day.

The Germans said that supply routes had been cut to Russian forces in the Terek sector and that the Reds were trying to break out to the east. Counter-attacks on the road to Tuapse were reported repulsed. Troops were said to have mopped up areas in Stalingrad and repulsed Russian attacks south of the Volga city.

German Losses Heavy

The army newspaper said the Germans were sustaining great losses at Naichik and behind the lines. A munitions train was reported blown up by a bomber. Another was said to have hit a staff headquarters, killing 150 German officers.

Despite the difficult position of the Russians at the Stalingrad, Red Star said the army persisted in fierce resistance. Pressed close to the Volga, the Russians were assaulted with troops, tanks, planes, artillery and mortars.

South of Stalingrad, dispatches said the Russians had advanced, occupying the outskirts of a settlement. Planes, tanks and infantry forced the heavily entrenched Nazis into retreat and subsequent counter-attacks were repulsed, the reports added.

Father and Son To Battle Axis

Browns Will Go into Army Together at Salisbury, Md.

SALISBURY, Md., Oct. 30 (P) — The Browns, father and son, are going into the army together.

Francis L. Sr. and Francis L. Jr., were notified by their draft board to report for army medical examination together.

Brown, pere, has gone through the experience before.

In the first World war, he was aboard a transport headed for France when the armistice was signed. The ship was ordered back to port.

Brown, fils, 21, is married and the father of a nine months old child, but "as long as my wife and baby will be taken care of, being drafted doesn't make much difference," he said.

Father and son received their draft papers Oct. 16. On the same day, another son, Vernon, 20, enlisted in the army air forces.

Francis, Jr., graduated from Wicomico High School in 1939. He said he would ask for a fourteen day furlough to arrange his domestic affairs, but his father said he would ask to be sent to camp at once.

San Francisco Has Long Alert

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30 (P) — For an hour and five minutes today the San Francisco bay area was at a state of alert while army and navy air forces searched the sky to identify a flight of planes detected in the distance.

The alert went through the yellow and blue phases but did not reach the red—a signal that means a raid is at hand and which, at night, calls for a blackout. Sirens did not sound.

Finally the army stated "the unidentified planes were eliminated as potential targets." Subsequently the army advised: "It has been determined definitely that the alert x x x was caused by friendly planes which have been identified."

The first alert came at 10:32 a. m. radio stations left the air at 10:34 a. m. The all clear came at 11:37 a. m.

It was San Francisco's twenty-fourth alert of the war but the first since July 23.

The public largely was unaware of the alert except for parents whose children were sent home from school.

Roosevelt Mimics Willkie for Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (P) — That irrepressible mimic, President Roosevelt, in discussing the reservoir of potential women war workers at his press conference today, could not resist tilting back in his swivel chair to the danger point and pronouncing the word reser-va-hr.

It brought a burst of laughter from the roomful of reporters who thought they recognized the pronunciation as that of a prominent speaker on the radio recently who told of a reservoir of American good will abroad which he said was leaking.

The dictionary says "reservoir," which is of French derivation, should be pronounced "rez-er-va-hr."

Glass Reports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (P) — Senator Carter Glass of Virginia was brief and to the point in filing his preliminary report of campaign expenditures with the senate secretary.

"Not a farthing received or disbursed," he wrote.

Herbert Haupt Worked In Bombsight Plant

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (P) — Herbert Haupt, an American youth who became a Nazi saboteur, once worked for a Chicago firm engaged in production of the supposedly secret Norden bombsight for war planes, a witness testified today at the first treason trial in Illinois history.

The witness was Andreas Conrad Grunau, a native of Germany who managed the concern. District Attorney J. Albert Woll told reporters later that Grunau was "brought here and taken away in the custody of immigration authorities. An assistant prosecutor who asked anonymity said Grunau was being held for a hearing by an alien board.

Green endorsed a proposed office of war mobilization, to be headed by a director responsible to the president, which would co-ordinate the offices of production and supply, manpower, technological mobilization and economic stabilization.

Murray Asks Conference

Murray proposed a conference of representatives of Congress, executive agencies, management, labor and agriculture to plan the unification of all production, procurement and manpower resources. Similar recommendations also came from James G. Patton, president of the national farmers union, and Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio farm bureau federation.

Meanwhile, the directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce proposed that the manpower question be referred for study and report to the committee composed of Bernard M. Baruch, Dr. Karl T. Compton and Dr. James B. Conant whose report on the rubber situation led to the appointment of William M. Jeffers as rubber administrator.

Green said that if it became necessary to direct workers to the more essential jobs, labor would "go along," but would "expect the right of representation in making these decisions which formerly were our exclusive prerogatives."

Murray Raps McNutt

Murray declared the War Manpower Commission, headed by Paul V. McNutt, "merely co-ordinates the confusion," issuing directives "to minimize the conflicts" among the war production board, the war, navy, labor and agriculture departments, the war labor board, selective service system, maritime commission, federal security agency, farm security and administration, national housing agency and office of defense transportation.

"If our manpower distribution today is planless and chaotic," Murray said, "it is simply free-for-all."

Green said that if it became necessary to direct workers to the more essential jobs, labor would "go along," but would "expect the right of representation in making these decisions which formerly were our exclusive prerogatives."

Then I tried the second one. That is when things really started happening. I had altitude on him but too much speed and I couldn't nail him on the tail. If I tried to turn under this guy to get him, or attempted to climb to rejoin my gang, I exposed myself to everything they had. So I dove past and kept going.

"The Messerschmitts followed me down with the sun behind them. I think there were four but only three stuck around. I wasn't staying any one place very long at about that time."

"Every time I turned or changed altitude, I'd see one of those golf balls (20-millimeter Messerschmitt cannon shells) go floating by where I had been."

Sees Ship Explode

"I saw the first ship I hit spin into the ground and explode. Then I went over the sea with a Messerschmitt on my tail. One came in too close and I nosed up and met him and got in a good burst. He dove into the water."

"Then something went over me from an angle so close it made me duck. I think it was a fourth Messerschmitt in that pack. He missed and kept going until he was out of sight."

"That left only two and I was breathing easier. One of them came close—too close. His ship couldn't have missed mine by more than five feet. But he exposed his belly and I raked him with fire. He spun into the sea."

By this time Middleditch's ammunition was gone from the gun in one wing, but another German still was after him. The American nosed toward the enemy and fired a burst in front of him.

"That convinced him I had some bullets left so he turned away and left me," the new ace said. "Then I headed home."

Industrial racketeer, now in Leavenworth, Kas., penitentiary serving a 14-year term as the head of a $10,000,000 narcotics ring, the state must appeal to the Department of Justice. The latter in turn would have to ask the president to commute the federal sentences so Lepke could die in the Sing Sing electric chair. So far, no steps have been taken to obtain commutation.

Attorneys for Lepke, who chiseled a half-million dollars a year from small businessmen for many years, said at the time of his conviction last December they would appeal to the supreme court of the United States, if necessary, for a habeas corpus writ to bar his removal to the death house.

Women of Nation May Be Required To Answer Quiz

Nation-Wide Registration Planned by President Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (P) — The government is considering a nationwide registration of women, President Roosevelt disclosed today, to locate those who could work in war plants and learn what jobs they could do.

The registration as outlined by the president at his press conference, would require all women to answer a set of questions about themselves but would not compel them to take a particular job. It would be like that obtained on older men in the registration of those over draft age.

The registrations would require action by Congress to authorize it. Mr. Roosevelt said the CIO-AFL labor war board, discussing it with him yesterday, talked of registering women from 18 to 65.

Green Urges Census

William Green, president of the AFL, advocated before a Senate labor subcommittee during the day that a census be taken of women 18 to 35 to list their experience and training, saying that "we must look to the homemakers" to man the industrial plants.

Green and Philip Murray, president of the CIO, opposed any legislation to draft workers or to freeze them in their jobs and called instead for better coordination of the various agencies dealing with manpower to eliminate confusion.

Mr. Roosevelt reported that national service legislation was still in the study stage and no decision had been made as to whether it was necessary.

Green endorsed a proposed office of war mobilization, to be headed by a director responsible to the president, which would co-ordinate the offices of production and supply, manpower, technological mobilization and economic stabilization.

Murray Asks Conference

Murray proposed a conference of representatives of Congress, executive agencies, management, labor and agriculture to plan the unification of all production, procurement and manpower resources. Similar recommendations also came from James G. Patton, president of the national farmers union, and Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio farm bureau federation.

Meanwhile, the directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce proposed that the manpower question be referred for study and report to the committee composed of Bernard M. Baruch, Dr. Karl T. Compton and Dr. James B. Conant whose report on the rubber situation led to the appointment of William M. Jeffers as rubber administrator.

Green said that if it became necessary to direct workers to the more essential jobs, labor would "go along," but would "expect the right of representation in making these decisions which formerly were our exclusive prerogatives."

Then I tried the second one. That is when things really started happening. I had altitude on him but too much speed and I couldn't nail him on the tail. If I tried to turn under this guy to get him, or attempted to climb to rejoin my gang, I exposed myself to everything they had. So I dove past and kept going.

"The Messerschmitts followed me down with the sun behind them. I think there were four but only three stuck around. I wasn't staying any one place very long at about that time."

"Every time I turned or changed altitude, I'd see one of those golf balls (20-millimeter Messerschmitt cannon shells) go floating by where I had been."

"I saw the first ship I hit spin into the ground and explode. Then I went over the sea with a Messerschmitt on my tail. One came in too close and I nosed up and met him and got in a good burst. He dove into the water."

"Then something went over me from an angle so close it made me duck. I think it was a fourth Messerschmitt in that pack. He missed and kept going until he was out of sight."

"That left only two and I was breathing easier. One of them came close—too close. His ship couldn't have missed mine by more than five feet. But he exposed his belly and I raked him with fire. He spun into the sea."

By this time Middleditch's ammunition was gone from the gun in one wing, but another German still was after him. The American nosed toward the enemy and fired a burst in front of him.

"That convinced him I had some bullets left so he turned away and left me," the new ace said. "Then I headed home."

Pups Born Inside Auto Tire Cover

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (P) — When the neighborhood iceman came to pick up his newly-recapped automobile tire at Matty Silanskas' service station, he left without it, remarking "that rubber's safer there than if it was on my car."

Silanskas' dog—in an emergency, he explained—dragged two cloth fender covers into the center of the tire and gave birth to four pups.

When anybody attempts to go near the tire, Mama dog snaps.

Kenny Treatment for Infantile Paralysis Criticized by Carroll

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30 —The infantile paralysis treatment of the Australian nurse, Elizabeth (Sister) Kenny, was criticized at the American Public Health Association meeting today as not justifying the wild enthusiasm it has created.

She brought this treatment, which she originated without medical aid in the Australian hinterland, to the United States two years ago. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has approved it. She uses hot water packs and muscle training on the limbs but no splints.

The criticism was made by Dr. H.

Maryland State

Hoffa, who also is editor of the Classified Marylander, went on to say, "I am sorry to say that the prevailing feeling among the rank and file of state employees is that either the state employees standard salary board will x x x be unable to submit its recommendations to you before the coming election, or that if they succeed in doing so, action thereon will be deliberately delayed until the election is over and that then, if you are successful, the board's recommendations will suffer the same fate as those of the original board."

"To sum it all up," he declared in his letter to the governor, "the seemingly unanimous feeling of the state employees is that x x x in their language, they have 'been given the run-around.'"

Hoffa invited the Governor "to consider this letter and to discuss its contents with me," before its publication in the Classified Marylander.

O'Connor Letter Evasive

Hoffa said editorially, "before publication thereof, the Governor was invited in the letter itself, to point out any error which might have crept in unobserved. His reply has been received but no attempt has been made by him to deny any fact stated."

The editor went on to say that O'Connor's letter was marked not for publication. He added, "we can only say that we deem it evasive, answering none of our charges and offering nothing whatever to relieve the present situation of the state's unfortunate underpaid employees."

Hoffa detailed salaries of state employees and charged that "even were the times normal, still many salaries are entirely too low."

Knock supported Secretary of War Stimson's previous assertion that there is complete cooperation between the army and navy in the Solomon area.

"I want to say, quite as emphatically as I can," Knox asserted, "that the army in every possible way is cooperating."

To back up that statement, he quoted a remark by Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal—"the closer to the front you get the closer the cooperation becomes."

"The army air arm," he said, "is carrying on a vigorous offensive against the enemy."

Knock declared that tanks mentioned in the earlier communication today as being used by the Japanese were light, probably about sixteen or seventeen tons.

12 Jap Tanks Destroyed

The number of tanks blasted plainly indicated that the Japanese have landed a considerable amount of powerful equipment on the island. Twelve light tanks were destroyed during the past week as army and marine corps repulsed repeated Japanese onslaughts.

Earlier the Japanese had lost five tanks in their unsuccessful attempts to drive through the American lines the night of Oct. 23, when four successive attacks, spearheaded by tanks, were launched under cover of a heavy artillery barrage.

The repulse of the various Japanese attacks has been followed by a lull in the fighting on Guadalcanal. The communiqué said that recent activity ashore has been confined to small skirmishes between patrols.

However, American aircraft were busy destroying two enemy seaplanes at Rekata Bay on Santa Isabel island 115 miles northwest of Guadalcanal and bombing and strafing enemy ground forces.

The torpedo boat action occurred the night of October 29-30 (Solomon time) when the American forces discovered the destroyer engaged in bringing troop reinforcements or supplies to the Japanese. This was the second torpedo boat action reported by the navy in the Solomons in recent weeks. On the night of October 14 enemy vessels shelling American forces on Guadalcanal from positions north of the island were attacked by the torpedo boats, which reported a probable hit on a Japanese cruiser.

The communiqué today said the Japanese bombers had attacked American positions on Guadalcanal on Thursday morning (Wednesday afternoon here), but all their explosives dropped in the water and no damage resulted.

Looking into post-war years, Eden said that this time the problem of Germany, including "its lust for conquest," must be seen through until the complete solution is reached.

"The fall of Hitlerism, and signatures on a peace treaty, will not be the complete solution because Hitlerism has incultured its terrible doctrines into the young people of Germany," the foreign secretary said.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 30 (P) — Branch Rickey, reiterating that he wouldn't do anything about a Brooklyn manager until he confers with Leo Durocher in St. Louis, today called the 1942 Dodgers' boss "an astute and fine tactician on the field."

The new Brooklyn president, however, said that "everything is out of the picture until I talk with Durocher."

28 Known Dead, 200 Injured in Terrific Tornado

Ozark Mountain Town in Arkansas Badly Damaged

BERRYVILLE, Ark., Oct. 30 (P) — Rescue workers, methodically searching ruins left by a devastating tornado that ripped through this Ozark mountain town, counted twenty-eight known dead tonight and estimated the injured at 200.

The storm struck about 10 p. m. last night. Leveling business houses and homes in a half-mile wide path through the northern and western sections of the town, one of the oldest communities in the Ozark region of northwestern Arkansas.

More than 200 homes were destroyed or damaged. Although nearly every business house was damaged, most of them, including three drug stores were able to open for business. The town's population is 1,485.

No Hospital Facilities

Shortly after the tornado roared through the community, doctors and nurses hurried here from Harrison and Eureka Springs to aid the town's three doctors in caring for the injured. Berryville was without hospital facilities and many of the more seriously hurt were taken to neighboring communities.

Later, emergency hospitals were set up in the city hall, courthouse and Methodist church. They were filled to overflowing. Search still went on in the flattened buildings for persons reported missing.

Red Cross disaster workers, hurried here from points in Arkansas, Missouri and Texas, took charge of relief activities. State police directed details in the continued search for additional dead. Volunteer workers from many communities, and representatives of the state health and welfare departments, joined in the work.

Power Plant Destroyed

The community's power plant was destroyed by the tornado, forcing rescue workers to labor through the night by torch light, candles and other makeshifts. An eight-man medical detachment from camp Robinson reached the scene early with medical supplies.

Providing food and shelter tonight for the shocked community's survivors proved a big problem. Red Cross workers, state agencies and other groups co-operated to operate the emergency hospitals, community soup kitchen and temporary housing.

Two bodies were found in an open field this morning. One report said thirty-one bodies had been recovered, but numerous checks at Eureka Springs and Harrison, where most of the injured were taken, placed the death toll at twenty-eight.

Limited communication facilities made it difficult to check all reports. Telephone service, even the mere thirty-odd miles to Harrison, was operating on at least a two-hour delay.

5,000,000 Tons Of Scrap Collected In Newspaper Drive

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (P) — Final returns from one-third of the forty-eight states and partial totals from the rest boosted the newspaper-sponsored scrap drive's collection near the 5,000,000-ton mark today.

The latest compilation of the newspapers' united scrap metal drive gave an aggregate of 4,852,438 tons.

While the drive officially ended Oct. 17, many communities continued their collections as part of the school children's campaign or in connection with the industrial salvage program. Others, which started later, were just getting in full swing, it was explained.

Vermont led the states reporting to date on a per capita basis, with 155.4 pounds for every man, woman and child, or a total of 27,905 tons. Kansas was second with 141.8 pounds and Oregon third with 129.3 pounds. Kansas tonnage was 127,732 and Oregon 70,508.

The average so far reported for the nation in the drive, which ran from Sept. 28 to Oct. 17 and piled up so much metal it has gored many junk yards, was 74 pounds for each citizen.

The Way To Get Some Needed Tax Relief

IT IS GOOD to see and hear Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican nominee for governor, crusading so valiantly against the iniquitous state income tax. This is perhaps the outstanding issue to be decided at the Tuesday election and outranks in importance even the serious issue of political bossism that confronts the voters.

McKeldin is making the definite promise that, if elected, he will bend his efforts toward immediate abolition of this outrageous tax, and the vigor and sincerity he displays in that respect assure his doing so. The Republican state platform advocates a cut of at least fifty per cent in this burdensome impost; but since it was adopted last September 18, conditions point clearly to the necessity for going farther than that and, as McKeldin has so clearly explained, for abolishing it altogether at least for the next biennium.

The reason for this, and a very impressive reason, is that since the state platform was adopted, the new federal tax legislation has been whipped into shape, and thus the expected burden occasioned by the war program is now much better known than it was at that time. That new tax burden is of such weight as to make the demand for state tax relief more imperative.

If this oppressive tax were needed as an absolute necessity for maintenance of the state government, the people would feel differently about it, but, as McKeldin says, it is "unconscionable because the proceeds were not only used to pay the expenses of the O'Connor budget, the most extravagant in the history of the state, but, in addition to that, to erect an utterly needless surplus of $10,000,000."

Also, if this enormous surplus had been brought about by economies in the cost of administration it could be justified, but no such economies have been effected. And the excessive rates imposed have naturally created a surplus in spite of the wanton efforts of the administration to spend the people's money for administrative purposes with a New Deal prodigality.

It is a shame, as McKeldin points out, that this huge surplus, "taken from your pockets without rhyme or reason," is lying idle today in the banks as "a monument to the frenzied finance of the O'Connor administration," when it could be doing so much good in behalf of prosecution of the war.

Certainly Marylanders are entitled to relief from this iniquitous tax, and McKeldin clearly tells why. "Standing by itself, Marylanders are entitled to relief from this tax," he says, "but the need for relief is infinitely greater because the federal government has raised very substantially its income, corporation and estate taxes, and has also heavily increased the amount of the invisible taxes—that is, taxes on many articles which you buy almost daily."

"The federal government has also lowered the exemptions," it is further explained in this respect, "so that there are few wage earners in Maryland who will escape federal income taxation. In addition, the federal government has found it necessary to impose a Victory super-tax of five per cent on all salaries and wages."

"No patriotic American will object to this because this is patently necessary for the successful prosecution of the war, but no full-blooded Maryland taxpayer will fail to resent the capricious imposition of the unneeded O'Connor state income tax in the face of these circumstances. From this abuse, you are entitled to and must be given relief."

Assuredly, and McKeldin points out just why this relief is imperative. "At this time," he notes, "5,000,000 family wage earners are, and later 5,000,000 more may be, in the armed forces. This means a serious derangement in family life and accustomed means of livelihood. The plight of the small businessman and the dislocations in business generally mean that another great group will be seriously affected by wartime conditions. It is safe to say that there will be very few families in the country who will not be thankful merely to be able to support themselves for the duration of the war. It is not a time to add to those burdens by the imposition of unnecessary tax loads."

Certainly it is not; and as we pass into the coming year we shall all find, with the addition of the new federal taxes, that all of us are going to have harder rows to hoe and to suffer a serious decline in our standard of living, in many instances to the point of severe hardship. Obviously, the thing for Marylanders to do now is to take the only step open to them in order to obtain relief from this state burden. That can be done by voting for the McKeldin state ticket Tuesday and also by voting for the Republican legislative tickets to the end that he can have support in the General Assembly in fulfilling his tax relief pledge.

Another Amendment Deserving Defeat

ONE of the amendments to be voted on at the election Tuesday pertains to the publicity requirement for proposed constitutional amendments. It would amend, if adopted, Section 1 of Article 14 of the state constitution.

At present the constitution calls for the publication of proposed constitutional amendments in county and city newspapers. The proposed amendment would reduce the number of times of such publications and would provide also for publishing them in pamphlet form, which would be "made available" to qualified voters.

The only excuse offered for this change of a wise provision long in the constitution is that of economy; but that argument is stultified by the provision itself, as what saving would be effected in one manner is offset by the other mode of publicity prescribed, the effectiveness of which in political hands would be very questionable.

Apparently the present administration doesn't like the light of publicity, which should by all means be shed upon legislative efforts to alter the organic laws of the state, and that attitude does not bode inducement for the measure.

Both on the farcical argument of economy, and in consideration of the sensible idea of giving the people all the light possible upon plans for changing their fundamental laws, this proposed amendment deserves to be defeated by the people at the coming election.

State Bossism Arouses Voters

SEVERAL REASONS why the people of Maryland should vote for McKeldin at the election Tuesday and against O'Connor have been set forth in a letter to the Baltimore Sun by a resident of that city, Roy Roush. The issue of bossism plays a prominent part in the enumeration.

Mr. Roush declares that voters are thoughtful about "how completely in matters political William Curran [Baltimore political boss] has dominated the administration," and "how all of Mr. O'Connor's appointments and most of his administrative activities as governor have been actuated with but a single purpose—to build up a state machine that would make his nomination for a second term a certainty and that would put Mr. Jackson and his followers 'in their place.'"

Yes, Mr. Roush is right in saying the people are concerned about all this and they are resentful about several other tickets are winning so many supporters in administration, including an outrageous state income tax. That is why Theodore R. McKeldin and the rest of the state ticket is winning so many supporters in this election.

The Nonessentials Are Overlooked

"MR. MCKELDIN may promise to abolish the income tax, but he did not say that if this were done, then it would be necessary to create a sales tax, or to raise the tax on personal and real property or to resort to other drastic means of filling the coffers of the state," say our Democratic friends.

Well, what about the big increase in the O'Connor budgets over the preceding administration budgets? And what about reductions in governmental nonessentials? And what about the addition of some 1,200 jobholders, virtually all of them political stooges and hangers-on placed for appeasement purposes?

If such things as these are given attention with interests of the taxpayers rather than the political support in mind, it certainly would not be necessary to resort to more unnecessary taxes to supplant the iniquitous income tax.

What the Head Nurse Said

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Once, in an army hospital, a hard-boiled head nurse preached me a sermon I have never forgotten.

I was in there for a little cutting and patching and I liked the little nurse who was on duty in our ward. She had pretty little curls and sweet gray eyes and she moved around like a ministering angel.

I thought I'd be smart and praise her to Head Nurse Flannigan when she made her morning calls. So I said something to that gruff woman about Miss Wilson being my idea of a perfect nurse.

"Huh!" said that frank woman. "Wilson's no perfect nurse. She's a MESS and I'm going to bounce her out of here first chance I get. She's sweet but she's dumb. She looks like one of those lovely angels and she thinks she's Florence Nightingale herself, in person, not a moving picture. But she'd let you die while she's fixing her hair, and then she'd weep all day over that nice kind gentleman who died."

"Now Murphy, that night duty nurse is rough but she knows her stuff. Wilson will clutter up the place and smile sweetly and forget to give you your medicine and she'll go right off duty at 6 o'clock and leave you to die because she can't disappoint her boy friend."

"Murphy never has dates any more with the boys. She busted too many of them when patients needed her and the boys walked out on her. But she's the girl for me. She's what we call a good typhoid nurse, the kind you put on a case when the nurse is just about twice as important as the doctor and you don't live unless your nurse knows her business. She doesn't cry when a patient dies but she feels like the devil just the same."

"You men patients make me sick, anyway. You pay so much attention to what a nurse looks like that you never notice what she is DOING. You can't tell a good nurse from a wax dummy—so you smile at the dumb ones and growl at the good ones. And I guess that's how most of you live when you're outside of a hospital."

"Now turn over there and get a little sleep." But I DIDN'T go to sleep. I lay there and memorized what the head nurse had said and made her angry the next day by telling her she was a kindhearted and sentimental woman!

Hitler Butchering Of Prisoners Seen As Object Lesson

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—That Herr Hitler deliberately wants to provoke the anti-Axis countries into butchering their German war prisoners is taken for granted in Washington and London, and maybe elsewhere throughout the world.

He aims to do it, it's assumed, by beginning to kill the prisoners he takes, in the expectation that their various countries will retaliate in kind.

That's the interpretation placed on his abandonment of Nazi recognition of the Geneva Convention, which was drawn to end wartime's inhumanities as far as possible, and which pledged its signatories, among other things, to decent treatment of helpless captives in their opposing midst.

Home Warning

The supposition is that Adolf senses a German inclination to give up and plans to counteract it by convincing his followers that, if they do, they'll be massacred.

The United Nations' murder of a considerable number of their captured Nazis might give such an impression, and the Fuehrer hopes to irritate the democracies into doing their desired part, by slaughtering some of their soldiers in his own hands. The Germans it's proposed to have sacrificed may not fancy the idea, but presumably they're not to be consulted.

Something of a problem will be presented to the democracies, too. It will be a decided aggravation to have the Nazis killing their nationals without reciprocating against their captured enemies. Nevertheless, they're likely to have more scruples in the matter than Herr Hitler is apt to have.

Worry Indicated

As an indication that Adolf is worried concerning his countrymen's morale, the prospect isn't democratically unfavorable.

Symptoms of anxiety in him have been noted for some time, however. They're explicable.

For one item, he naturally imperatively needs his military force 100 percent on his fighting front, and he has to hold about half of it for police duty in his temporarily conquered but simmering neighboring areas.

Pierre Laval's portion of France is frazzling out.

A Nazi Bother

The African west coast is a Nazi bother, with U. S. troops landing in Liberia and threatening Dakar, which is too inconvenient for Germany to reach overland and which it hasn't the naval strength to protect oceanically.

Italy, as a Nazi ally, has gone all to pieces.

Spain's previously sympathetic Falangist government may still be sympathetic, but it's ceased, doubtless because it's lost confidence in the Fuehrer's final chances, to continue as a possible ally presently.

Chile, as a South American friend, is on its way out, and Argentina is turning clammy.

Japan never did have any interest except its own, in the Axis.

If the Nazis are compelled to rely, now, upon the hoped-for murder of German prisoners, by the democracies, to hold the Fatherland itself in line, the guessing is that Adolf's justified in a good bit of pessimism—though of course he doesn't plead guilty to any.

Disposing of Hitler

What'll happen to Mr. Hitler if the ground caves completely from under him isn't a matter of much speculation.

True, a pair of alternatives are suggested.

One is that the Germans themselves will dispose of him. Very few commentators surmise that he'll be permitted to duck out as the Kaiser

CARRIER SUIVOR

It was officially announced by the Navy in Washington that Rear Admiral Leigh Noyes (above), who was aboard the aircraft carrier Wasp when she was torpedoed and sunk in the Solomon area, is "safe." More than ninety per cent of the ship's complement was rescued.

did and die gradually in some little foreign country.

The other is that he'll attend to his own case when he realizes that he's done for. The Germans are rather celebrated for doing so in emergencies of the kind. It's known as "doing the German." He's regarded as just the sort of chap from whom a case of it might be anticipated. All hands assess him as "nutty," anyway.

It wouldn't be so nutty in his instance, either. That he'll wait to be caught and tried on ordinary criminal charges, as President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have suggested, is generally rated as a decided improbability.

That he won't murder some war prisoners, though, in the meantime, isn't regarded as such safe betting.

Maryland Farm Musings

By the Extension Service of the University of Maryland

LOANS on wheat had been made to 3,583 Maryland farmers by the Commodity Credit Corporation, as of October 10. The total amount of these loans was $1,737,542.51.

Along with the increased production of livestock and poultry called for in the Food-for-Freedom program, there is an increased danger from disease and pests, it is pointed out by Dr. Mark Welsh, State Veterinarian.

With present demands for increased milk production and high cost of feeds, where cull apples are available they will make a satisfactory feed to replace a part of the silage or hay fed normally, according to Dr. K. L. Turk, head of the dairy department at the University of Maryland.

There will be a demand for turkeys of various sizes as long as the size of the families cannot be standardized, Dr. Frank E. Moore of the United States Department of Agriculture, told those attending the turkey improvement school at the University of Maryland.

The nation's hog growers are called upon to plan a ten per cent increase in their 1943 spring farrowings, compared with this year's record crop, and also to market their hogs ten pounds heavier than they are this year. In making the announcement, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard said that the 1943 requirements for United States military forces and Lend-Lease alone will exceed the 1942 requirements by more than a billion pounds. State and county hog production goals will be established as soon as possible.

Factographs

Motorists in Cuba are permitted to purchase gasoline only at the filling station designated on the ration card, the department of Commerce says.

Street car traffic in Port of Spain, Trinidad, has practically doubled as the result of the boom in the last year.

Dublin office girls helped Eire farmers harvest their crops this year.

Churches in England are giving up old hymn books for salvage.

Venezuela plans extensive housing projects for its working classes.

Mark Sullivan

Mr. Wendell Wilkie spoke in the evening, and eighteen hours later President Roosevelt held a press conference. Mr. Wilkie's speech was formal, carefully prepared; it was delivered over all the national radio chain, and other wise was accompanied by preparations that made the utterance authoritative.

Mr. Roosevelt's press conference, on the other hand, was informal, off-hand. Hence it would be unfair to infer too much from what Mr. Roosevelt said.

Yet the two events had a quality in common. The two men are the leaders of our great parties. The sum of what they say, and their manner of saying it, is America's official attitude about the war, it is the spirit of the leadership our people are receiving.

Mr. Wilkie made these points: America's thinking in the future must be world-wide, global. For us, there is in the world a great reservoir of respect, hope and good-will. But in this reservoir we are cutting leaks, by mistakes we are making.

Russia and China need, and wish to be more definitely assured of our aims. America must disavow imperialism, not only for itself, but for its allies (meaning especially Britain). Our position about India is "wishy-washy." "India is our problem." (Meaning we ought to tell Britain what she should do about India.)

Outmoded System

The colonial system should be abolished "wherever it exists, under whatever nation." (This, like the allusion to imperialism, applies especially to Britain.)

Military victory in this war will not be enough. "We must win our way through... to a new world idea."

We must make the whole world a common-wealth of free nations.

There must be "a new society, global in scope." America must "help create a new society in which men and women the globe around can live and grow invigorated by freedom."

That was Mr. Wilkie's speech. It was almost wholly about our duty to other nations, and to the world. The emphasis was strongly on post-war, on conditions after the war is won. About the present necessity of winning the war, Mr. Wilkie said almost nothing, not much more than "We can win the war."

Comment Avoided

Mr. Roosevelt at his press conference declined to comment on Mr. Wilkie's speech. Plainly, and properly, he wished to avoid any controversy between himself and Mr. Wilkie. On only one point, a minor and technical one, did he permit himself to be quoted. Mr. Wilkie had said that some Asiatic nations think the Atlantic Charter applies only to nations bordering on the Atlantic, that they wish a Pacific Charter too. Mr. Roosevelt pointed out, accurately, that he has said in the past that the Atlantic Charter is universal.

Mr. Roosevelt's press conference must not be looked on as a round expression of attitude about the war. But the topics he spoke of seemed to suggest what he is preoccupied with. They were not vitally related to the war. Few were important enough to get much newspaper attention. He spoke at some length about a humanitarian project for improving social and economic conditions in the West Indies, seeing to it that the people are better fed and the like. This presumably would be a post-war matter.

To one person who listened carefully to both Mr. Wilkie and Mr. Roosevelt, it seemed that they missed realism. They do not dwell upon the business of winning the war—they look beyond the war, to a post-war vision.

An Opiate

This is an opiate to our people—and I am not sure but it may be an opiate to those who say it. The hard present fact is that we need to win the war, and our people need to be stirred to win it. On the day of Mr. Wilkie's speech, we received news of disaster, loss of the air-carrier "Wasp," and a few days before we had received news of a major disaster in August, the loss of three cruisers under circumstances disturbing to learn. And on the day of Mr. Roosevelt's press conference we received news of an alarming and intolerable fact—that Japan has established a submarine base on American soil, in the Aleutians. Nearly a full year after we entered the war, we are in a seriously less advantageous position than before the war began.

The stark present fact is, we are not winning the war. What we need from our leadership is tonic to fight, incitement to the simple, primitive emotion of hunting down our enemies, destroying them.

That is what we need for ourselves—and it is what our Allies need from us. They may talk to Mr. Wilkie about post-war assurances, a post-war version. But what they need most is that we fight the war—now.

Rationing No Hardship

From the Connellsville, Pa., Courier

Adjusting the American menu to meet conditions created by rationing of meat may not prove to be a serious problem, according to Secretary of Agriculture Claude E. Wickard. There has been much printed recently about the rationing of the nation's biggest dish—meat—but the secretary says it really amounts to only a few mouthfuls less than was consumed per capita in 1941.

In a signed article in The American Magazine the secretary says two and one-half pounds per person per week equals about 130 pounds per year which compares with an average consumption of 131 pounds of meat for the 10 years between 1930 and 1940.

That makes the rationing proposition sound considerably easier. As a substitute it is suggested chicken be served more often, especially as the Nation has a bumper crop approximating 10 per cent more than last year. Fish cannot be counted upon to replace meat because of restrictions on fishing due to the submarine menace.

"If every American family will have an extra chicken every so often instead of beef and a cheese dish now and then instead of pork, the pressure on our meat supplies will be eased a great deal," says the secretary.

American housewives may be counted upon to take such a situation in their stride. There'll be lots of "patriotic meals" served in many homes this winter.

Income Inequity A Big Blunder, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—It is most regrettable that, in the midst of war, the management group—America's most successful and enterprising managers—should suddenly be saddled with a problem of deflating their personal finances. It would be a sacrifice eagerly made if the purpose was to raise money to finance the war, but that isn't the object of the president's executive order which reduces the salaries of the management group.

It would be understandable, too, if the reduction affected war-made compensation, but it goes back to pre-war salaries and provides an unnecessary, if not wholly unfair, attack on the management group who are expected to work long hours and stretch their energies many fold to supervise the biggest production job handled by any nation in all history.

The scars of war wear off, as do the hardships, but unfairness is never forgotten. There is manifest unfairness in what the president has ordered done. It hardly seems possible that he could have realized the damage he was doing to the morale of the very men the nation depends on for management of the entire war program.

For Congress didn't order the reduction in pre-war salaries, nor did Congress fix any limits on what a man might be paid. Congress very properly passed a tax bill to raise revenue and, if the limitation of incomes had been accomplished in the lawful manner that a revenue measure operates there would not be such a feeling of discouragement.

But when Congress refused to legislate any such limitation on salaries and the executive order undertakes to use war powers to accomplish what Congress declined to enact, the whole episode becomes more than a mere segment of a so-called anti-inflation program. It becomes a matter of vital principle and makes a mockery of the cry that America is fighting to preserve her constitution. In this instance a blunder has been made in usurping power that Congress did not delegate, and it now becomes necessary for Congress to assert its rights and in the next tax bill, if not sooner, prohibit the Bureau of Internal Revenue from using any of its so-called powers for the purpose of reducing salaries or incomes except as provided in the revenue laws on the statute books.

Long-Taught Lesson

If the president wishes a limitation on salaries, he should ask Congress to provide the same not only for salaries but for investment income. If Congress declines, he should certainly in sportsmanlike fashion abide by the result.

There is one lesson that American politics has taught, namely, that people who lost a fight must be magnanimous and not punitive. The administration lost its fight for limitation of top salaries through the income tax laws, and now endeavors to do under the guise of anti-inflation what it could not obtain by actual legislation.

There is no persuasive way to prevent inflation by reducing pre-war salaries. This is really deflation and nothing in the statute says anything about deflation.

Many inequities are produced by the very executive order which seeks to remove so-called inequities. Thus out of the forty-eight states and the District of Columbia, there are four states where no state income tax laws prevail. In the fourteen states, the citizen can retain $25,000 while in the other thirty-four states and the District of Columbia, a citizen cannot retain $25,000 no matter what his salary above that figure happens to be. Why should a so-called federal order be applied without uniformity? What possible objection was there to allowing the citizens of the thirty-five areas to deduct their state taxes, so they could be on a parity with the citizens of the four states?

Other Inequalities

This is but one of the many inequities, the worst of which is that the president of a company making war supplies can receive only a net income of $25,000 while the stockholders who clip coupons or get dividends from that same company can receive unlimited amounts. Also, though the revenue laws provide for a review of income tax rulings and decisions by the courts, the new executive order seeks to deprive the citizens of any court review. This means that labor unions, as well as employers, must accept the findings of fact and the interpretations of a bureau employee as final. Never before have American citizens been treated in such high-handed manner. It's a regrettable blunder in the midst of war.

If the government needs 100 per cent of all incomes over $25,000 or everything over $5,000, the average citizen will gladly accept such a ruling as necessary to finance the war, but he will prefer that legislation specifically say so, instead of being ordered to obey a law Congress never passed.

Child, by Nature Is Democratic, Dr. Myers Says

Youngsters Need To Play
with Other Children of Their Age

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

We have moved to a so-called "new neighborhood," a letter states, and my children, ages four and five respectively, are very fond of a little boy a few years their senior from a so-called "low" family. As far as I can see they are "good" people but not too clean and a bit ignorant.

"I have studied the child very closely and find him a very honest, polite little boy. He is very creative and the children enjoy playing with him and never seem to tire of his company."

"To my mind my children are getting more in character building from this child than they would from a child coming from a family with prestige and background."

"Several of my friends disapprove of this but I think it very unfair to feel racial prejudice or social distinction and I would like my children to feel the same way. What would your viewpoint be? I am enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope for your reply."

As I answered this mother, I agree with her that any children, especially under 10 or 12, are not snobs. Of course her two children need also to play with some other children of their age. So does this visiting older boy.

Father Plays Jacks

From another mother whose little girl is seven I read:

"Bernice is in bed safely after a long session with her. We are reading Tom Sawyer and it's too exciting to stop anywhere. Will Injun Joe get them? How about the treasures? Do they finally find it? I have to pretend I've never read it before as she will worm all the answers out of me. Next we are fingernails. We are trying to solve the nail-biting problem again. Once school is out, it will be easy, because the stops being jittery. We talked it over and decided the best help now would be to paste adhesive over the tortured nails. Not as punishment but to help Bernice remember not to bite!"

"Now we have nail polish, bright cherry color and very gorgeous. The minute it starts to peel we remove the old, and put on a lovely new coat. The nails are growing beautifully and Carl and I keep up the praise, long and loud."

"Jack plays jacks with her by the hour and the two of them sit wrapping and laughing over the jacks game on the front porch every night."

Having visited in this home I can understand why this father and mother do so well at bringing up this little daughter.

New Interest in Old Saints Is Manifested This Hallowe'en

Saint Michael

Saint Christopher

Wide World Features

NEW YORK—Hallowe'en, the time-worn eve of mischief but the prelude to All Saints Day since the ninth century, may be a more solemn occasion this year.

It is rather toward the saints that thousands are looking in the hour of struggle, say chaplains of the armed services. This new interest in saints has been going on for weeks and has led to considerable research.

At St. Patrick's cathedral and at headquarters of the National Catholic Community Service-U. S. O., the Rev. George P. Jacoby finds the most frequent request is for the Miraculous Medal of the Blessed Virgin.

There are many requests for medals of St. Christopher, the greatest patron of soldiers or travelers. He was the 3rd century convert who carried the Christ-child across a stream, according to legend.

Research has popularized some obscure saints. One is St. Joseph of Cupertino (17th C.), credited with 70 levitations, with visions of flying through the air and with miracles of healing unparalleled by any other saint. Like many others, he is popular both with the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches.

Airmen Favor Saints
Airmen have patronized St. Joseph and favor the Archangel saints too—Michael, prince of the Church Militant, and Gabriel, who visited the Virgin.

Another is St. John, disciple of lofty inspiration, whose symbol is the eagle.

to help one choose a college and know about life at college and how to succeed at college?

A. Yes; I have prepared a list of such books to be had for the asking by writing me at 235 East Forty-fifth street, New York city, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

SEN. MILLARD E. TYDINGS

SAYS ELECT E. BROOKE LEE

ADVISES VOTE FOR SAFETY OF CHILDREN, FAMILY AND SELF

Speaking to a rally of 700 Democrats at Bethesda last week, Senator Millard E. Tydings said concerning next Tuesday's Congressional election:

"Now, I don't know Mr. Beall, who is running for Congress on the Republican ticket very well. I know him as a casual acquaintance."

"I believe he is a man of good character. I believe he is a man of some ability. I don't know that he has ever held public office, elected public office. I don't recall that he has. But I believe that in the very nature of things the average candidate on the other ticket for a national office is likely to be less inclined to support some measure of international cooperation than is the average candidate on the Democratic side."

"In the case of Colonel Lee I am certain that, whatever Brooke Lee's virtues and faults may be, he is a passionate advocate of international cooperation and all agencies that have reasonable promise to the settlement of international disputes without recourse to the battlefield."

"I think that that is important in this campaign. To me it is more transcendent than economy, than prohibition, than the AAA, than the Wagner Act, than wages and hours, or any of those things, all of which are important in themselves, but which shrink into complete insignificance by comparison with the responsibility which you and I and every adult person in this republic has at this very tragic time in the life of humanity."

"And therefore it seems to me that we do not want to vote for candidates this time. We do not want to vote for parties this time. If I had no connection at all with a political party, I would vote for myself this time. I would vote for my family this time. I would vote for my children this time. And if I felt that their safety was by saying good-bye to the world and cutting all ties with the world and trying to lead or lose this world by ourselves, then I would vote for men who stand that way, even if I were serving with a different party. But I cannot see how any person who is seriously thinking can feel that that is the way to lessen wars in the future."

"And so, on this congressional ticket I feel that we will be wise indeed, where men are frank and we know them from what they say, to support those candidates who are going to stand for the general proposition of international cooperation as a means of stopping international wars."

"This is our chance. It won't come again when this time has gone by."

"And so I ask you, each of you, not to be content to vote alone, but to be a committee of one. Take your friends to the polls with you, and put men on guard while you yet have time, so that we won't repeat the devastating history of the last twenty-five years, when the opportunity was ours and we scoffed at it and turned our backs on it, only to pay a price in blood and treasure that no man now living will ever calculate."

Very sincerely,
David J. Lewis

SENATOR GEORGE L. RADCLIFFE

AND MAYOR HOWARD W. JACKSON

ENDORSE LEE FOR CONGRESS

Citing the paramount need for able, experienced and energetic leaders in Congress, Senator George L. Radcliffe and Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore urge the election of Colonel E. Brooke Lee by the voters in the Sixth Congressional District.

Speaking at political rallies in Montgomery County last week, Senator Radcliffe said, "It is of extreme importance to the successful conclusion of the war effort to elect Colonel E. Brooke Lee to Congress. He is known to be a man of energy and ability, and I am confident he will be helpful, effective and fully cooperative with our Federal Administration and with other agencies in the carrying out of our War Program."

Mayor Jackson, speaking in Baltimore, Tuesday night, strongly urged the election of Colonel E. Brooke Lee by the people of Western Maryland.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—Every network a different game, in fact one with two of them. That makes a total of five contests to be heard in full or in part as a complete quota of football fare for Saturday.

Probably the game that is attracting the biggest share of attention is the Big Ten contest between Wisconsin and Ohio State. It will go on the air via NBC starting at 2:45 p. m.

Halloween Handouts

BAKED ORANGE ALASKA: For Halloween swank

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
Wide World Food Editor

The war has put a dimout on social festivities this fall, but Halloween calls for a party. It should be a simple affair, however, inexpensive and easy to prepare.

Older folks as well as youngsters will enjoy the traditional Halloween setting of grinning pumpkins, spooky cats and witches as reminders of carefree childhood days. It will give them a needed letdown from war work and worries.

If there are a dozen or so in the group, serve STUFFED APPLE SALAD. This uses one of the fall Victory foods (apples) urged by the government to be served often.

Select firm red apples, scoop out centers—use them in sauce for a later meal. Sprinkle the insides of apples with lemon juice to keep them from darkening as well as giving extra flavor. Cut faces through the red skin with a sharp knife. When time to serve, fill with one and one-half cups diced celery mixed with one and one-half cups cubed pineapple, half cup diced peaches, half cup broken nuts and third cup salad dressing. This will fill a dozen apple cups. Serve the apples on a shallow tray and garnish with shredded lettuce or cress.

CARROT RELISH SANDWICHES go well with this salad. Spread twenty-four slices buttered Boston brown bread with two-thirds cup grated carrots mixed with one-fourth cup chopped pickles, one-fourth cup chopped olives and one-half cup minced ham or other meat. Add four tablespoons salad dressing. Wrap sandwiches in waxed paper and a damp cloth and chill until needed.

If the party merely calls for doughnuts, fresh fruits and coffee try these modern CHOCOLATE DOUGHNUTS: Beat two eggs and add two-thirds cup sugar and two squares chocolate (unsweetened) melted, mix well and stir in one teaspoon vanilla, one teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup milk, three flour,

Baked Orange Alaska
8 oranges
2 tablespoons
3 tablespoons
1 quart vanilla
1 cup sugar
1 egg white
1 cup cream
Cut off tops of oranges. Carefully remove sections and mix with vanilla syrup. Refill orange cups with sections and chill thoroughly. Top with ice cream. Cover ice cream to the very edges of the orange shell with heavy meringue. Make meringue by beating egg whites until frothy, then adding sugar gradually while beating until mixture holds peaks. Cover bottom of shallow pan with several layers of heavy wrapping paper. Place orange cups in pan and bake in very hot oven (400 degrees F.) for a few minutes (no more than 5) or until tipped with brown. Serve immediately. Serves 8.

and three teaspoons baking powder. Toss the soft dough on floured board and roll out until about one-half inch thick. Cut out doughnuts and fry in deep hot fat. Cool and carefully frost tops with melted sweet chocolate (heated in double boiler). Let cool until the frosting has set. For extra top decorations sprinkle candy corn over the freshly frosted doughnuts.

Scalloped Finnan Haddie Is Good

Just about the best way to serve Finnan haddie is scalloped. Try it for dinner this week with baked potatoes.

Ingredients: One pound Finnan haddie; one teaspoon Worcester-shire sauce; two cups medium cream sauce; one tablespoon minced parsley; buttered bread crumbs. Directions: Cover fish with boiling water, drain and flake. Combine it with two sauces and parsley and pour into greased baking dish. Cover with crumbs and bake for fifteen minutes, or until brown, at 375 degrees F. Serves six.

Vegetable Hint

If dried vegetables are pre-cooked in steam they will keep better, require less soaking before cooking and will look and taste better. Those pre-cooked in steam are higher in food value than those pre-cooked in boiling water.

Hints Are Given By a Specialist For Using Fats

Methods for Saving Are Cited To Help the War Effort

How extensively kitchen fats can be used as food and when they should be turned in to processors to increase the glycerine supply are questions in the minds of many homemakers, says Miss Margaret McPheeters, specialist in foods and nutrition for the University of Maryland Extension Service. She gives some of the answers by home economists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The important goal is to build up the country's fat supply. By making good use in the kitchen of the fats saved from day to day, getting the most from them as a food, we lessen the burden on commercial stocks of fats. For that reason, people are advised to use all they can for food and cooking, and then turn in what is left.

For Several Purposes Properly cared for, fats that are saved are good for several purposes in the regular cooking routine. They can be used for seasoning, frying, cooking, and in some cases for baking.

Drippings from roasts and other cooked meats make flavorful fats for seasoning; they can be used in gravies, when cooking or heating vegetables, in salad dressings, and on wilted lettuce. If used for baking, the drippings will need to be clarified.

Bacon drippings are often used for shallow frying, such as for frying eggs, apples, chicken, cabbage, and liver and other meats. Bacon, sausage, and poultry fats may be used as the fat in cream sauces for vegetables, as well as in gravy.

In Various Ways Fats trimmed from raw meat can be used in various ways, such as for frying meats having too little fat in suet puddings, and in pastries. The meat trimmings can be rendered and used as any other fat. Poultry fat is good for shortening in cakes, biscuits, and other baking. Rendered suet and rendered fresh pork also make good shortening for pastry, biscuits and other quick breads.

Egg Salvage

You can cook egg yolks (leftovers) this way: Drop the yolks carefully to prevent them from separating, into water just below the boiling point. Cover and simmer fifteen minutes. Cool and use them diced in salads, scalloped blends or sauces, and pressed through a sieve they give an ornate touch to salads, soups or creamed dishes. Added to sandwich mixtures they step up the iron content for the school lunches.

Griddle Hint

An electric griddle for pancakes works more efficiently if wiped with olive oil.

Pass the Biscuits

Biscuits go to the main part of a luncheon or dinner when made like this: Make up regular biscuit dough, pat out thin and then spread generously with chopped, seasoned cooked ham, moistened with leftover gravy. Roll up and bake thirty minutes in greased loaf pan in moderate oven. Unmold and surround with creamed vegetables, reheated gravy, leftover, or tomato sauce.

Waffle Topper

Spiced pears make a grand top spread for hot waffles served as dessert for luncheon, supper or dinner. Use canned pears and cook down the juice a little, with some spices added (mace, cinnamon and cloves give a good blend). Serve warm or cold.

LOIS EBY and JOHN C. FLEMING

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX "MARY, YOUR roommate's on the phone."

Mary nodded thanks to Jane and left the nervous young man signing up for his first job, scribbling furiously at her desk.

Fran was trying to keep excitement from her voice. "Are you coming straight home from work tonight?"

"Why, no. Ken wants me to go bowling with a gang from his department."

"Well, tell him to go jump in the lake—by himself," said Fran. "I have something to tell you."

Mary promised, and went back to her desk. What on earth could have happened that Fran refused to discuss it over the phone?

She was thankful once again that she was dealing with people these days instead of typing cards. She could push her own problems into the background in the urgency of theirs. She did not brood over Fran's message as she once would have done, in fearful hope.

It was not until she was riding home through the cold, moonlight night that she began to lose her calm in a feeling of excitement. She almost ran the short block from the bus to the apartment.

Fran met her at the door. She looked mischievous and happy. "Come out to the kitchen," she said. "We're having a midnight snack."

"A snack!" gasped Mary as she followed Fran through the dark living room into the warm, lighted kitchen, to see scrambled eggs, toast and coffee steaming hot on the table. "What is it, Thanksgiving?"

"It is," said Fran firmly. "Sit down. We've got things to talk about."

Mary found she was famished. The strenuous evening's work, topped off by the bus ride and walk in the cold, brisk air, had given her a keen appetite. She was half through her scrambled eggs before Fran had reached the point in her story where she had eavesdropped at the door of Toinette's bungalow.

"I know it was her publicity agent, Link Jackson," Fran said, "because he's been around the set a lot. In fact, Toinette introduced us the other day. He was plenty peeved at her. And he said, 'You'll go to Ciro's tonight—and Bruce Martin will like it! You picked him, now it's up to you to handle him.' Mary's coffee cup remained half-way to her lips, as she stared at Fran with a puzzled frown. "What on earth—"

"Then, Fran said, 'he went on about how Toinette understood a romantic picture like 'Always in My Heart' had to have a romantic publicity campaign behind it. And he told her to call up Bruce."

Mary whispered, "Fran, what are you trying to tell me? That Toinette Vaughn's only going with Bruce because Link Jackson wants her to?"

"No," Fran said slowly. "I think she likes him all right, but her career comes first. And she's using him in her publicity campaign deliberately—probably going to the places where it's best to be seen, at the times when it's best to be seen. Link furnishes the music, and Bruce dances to it."

"Oh!" Mary remembered the conflict on Bruce's face that night at the Brown Derby. "He'd hate that," she murmured.

"You bet your life he would—and he does," snapped Fran happily. "I've seen him bringing her to work sometimes, and he looked like a thundercloud."

"But do you think he knows that her agent arranges all their meetings?"

Fran grinned broadly. "I do not," she said. "Even in the little I heard of their chat there was an air of secrecy and conniving that was too plain to be missed. No, Link told her SHE had to do the handling. I'll bet you beefsteaks to bombers that this whole thing of her going back to him was all a part of Link's plan. Remember that write-up in that magazine you sent me at the hospital? Something about 'If Toinette ever gets romantic again, the victim will be Bruce Martin'?"

Mary nodded, silent and thoughtful.

"Well," Fran cried triumphantly, "I'll bet he had blue prints of the whole affair all drawn up then. Toinette is not in love with Bruce, any more than I am. He's just useful to her. She'll throw him down when Link Jackson wants to turn off the romantic campaign."

She leaned toward Mary eagerly. "Don't you see what this means, Chickadee? All you need to do is wait for the campaign to bust up. Or—if you get tired of waiting, call it off yourself."

"What do you mean—call it off?"

"Why, tell Bruce the set-up. Do you think he'll go on playing puppet for any Link Jackson?"

Mary's elbows were on the table, her fingers pushed back through the red-gold mass of her hair as she considered. She was sharing Fran's enthusiasm, and Fran grew slowly indignant. She

Science gathers its materials in unexpected places. The story of the Mutiny on the Bounty is an adventure yarn of the sea, but it is also one of the great contributions to human heredity. When we study heredity in mice we know about heredity in mice, not necessarily in human beings. It is a convenient way to study the subject because we can keep the mice up in cages and keep them from getting away and having love affairs in the open. The mutineers of the Bounty landed on a desert island and intermarried with the natives; they were all killed but one and when discovered, he was the ancestor of everybody on the island; they had been in a cage.

So the story of the three United States sailors in a rubber raft floating on the Pacific for thirty-four days is an adventure story of the first class, but it will probably stick in the physiologists long after it has been dropped from the story books, because it is a study in metabolism.

Interesting to Physiologists

Three men were forced down in a Navy plane and found themselves in a rubber raft with nothing to eat, no water, no nothing. Oh, yes, they had a knife. As hunger began to get the better of civilized ideas, they agreed that survivors should eat the heart, liver and internal organs of the first one that died. One of them was able to spear a fish from day to day, and these were eaten raw.

After several days of blistering heat and clear weather, it rained. After that there were squalls every day. So they had water. And water was what saved them.

That is the part of the story that gets in the physiologists. What they had to eat for thirty-four days was probably as much as a normal adult American eats in one day of light meals. And it had no variety. They had no vitamin tablets. But they had water. And men can live for thirty-four days if they have water.

It is one of the very few recorded experiments to determine this point. The average reader of scientific literature has read a number of loose statements and thinks that physiology has plenty of data on the subject. That fellow that was out in the desert that time. Well, what fellow who was out in what desert, what time? I was talking to a professional physiologist about this and he began to make vague statements so we started to look it up and found almost nothing. The figure of the man in the desert gets vaguer and vaguer as you track him down. No professional faster, not even Mohandas Gandhi, has been able to stand the torture of a fast without water.

The fluid in the body is distributed in the blood (five per cent), the fluid loose between tissues (fifteen per cent) and the fluid inside cells (fifty per cent). So seventy per cent of your body—105 pounds of a 150-pound man—is water. The body loses water at the rate of four and a half pints a day, even in winter. The water in the body performs all sorts of functions—ribributes foods in solutions, salts, carries waste products from the kidneys and lungs, regulates heat.

We need it badly. If you don't believe it, get on a rubber raft in the middle of the Pacific without it.

Garrett County To Ration Gas After Nov. 22

Registration for Books Will Be Held in Public School

OAKLAND, Oct. 30.—F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, has received word from John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C., that a nation-wide mileage rationing of gasoline would be put into effect November 22, and that the plan called for the registration for gasoline purposes to be conducted through the schools of the county.

Dates of registration are either November 9, 10, and 11, and Rathbun said one of these three days would be selected soon for this county, as he felt that one day would be sufficient for the purpose.

Rationing will be under the direction of the Office of Civilian Defense organizations and its local centers, along with price administration regional state rationing administrators, and through national and county rationing boards.

Gasoline consumers are to appear during the day set at the designated public school closest to the applicant's residence and such applicants will receive a basic ration book upon presentation of his tire inventory inspection record. ### Violence Reported

Activities of Halloween pranksters, which began here several weeks ago, have become decidedly worse in the past few days, residents complained today.

The usual window-soaping and tick-tacking have come to be expected by the residents and little complaint is made about it. However, this year groups of boys are touring the town bargeing the residences with large and varied selections of fruits and vegetables.

A number of citizens report cabbage and cauliflower stocks have been thrown at their homes, while in other sections apples have been thrown by the group. Milk bottles have been broken and hedges trampled.

The worst feature of the affair is that the groups make their rounds between 10 and 12 o'clock at night and awaken the citizens, so that the one-time sport has become a menace here.

Gas Rationing To Be Enforced, McCormick Says

Riddick Denies He Reported Books Were Being Bootlegged

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—A reported bootlegging of gasoline ration coupons in Anne Arundel county brought a warning today from State OPA Director Leo H. McCormick that violators of ration regulations would be dealt with vigorously and that investigations would be conducted by OPA officials all the more forcefully.

Carl W. Riddick, former voluntary worker on the Annapolis rationing board, who had been quoted as saying during an interview, "anybody can buy a ration book from bootleggers who frequent the halls of the ration board in Annapolis," today denied the statement, attributed to him, "I am sure that if Mr. McCormick had read the official transcript of my testimony he would not have made such a statement. It is apparently based on an erroneous report."

Calls Statement Ridiculous
Riddick added that he had "particularly emphasized during the interview that the Annapolis board was being ably administered. All statements which have been attributed to me which charge that bootleggers have been dealing in or about the Annapolis ration board are ridiculous and pure fiction."

Following Riddick's repudiation of the interview, McCormick declared in a statement that on being informed of the remarks attributed in the interview to Riddick, he "immediately contacted the reporter who had written the story and asked if the quotations attributed to Mr. Riddick were printed as received."

The OPA statement said McCormick "was told that the quotations were made to the reporter in the corridor of the court house following an administrative hearing."

"Mr. McCormick then called Mr. P. Marion Lazenby, chairman of the Anne Arundel County Ration Board, and discussed the matter with him."

"Realizing that the Annapolis board was functioning honestly and competently and that statements to the contrary would have a most demoralizing effect on the public and the ration program in general and on the competent Annapolis board, Mr. McCormick issued his statement."

McCormick Issues Statement
"Mr. McCormick now understands that Riddick has made a complete denial that bootlegging of gasoline coupons was taking place in and around the Annapolis board."

"In so far as the state office of the OPA is concerned, the incident is thus closed except that its enforcement division is now and has been constantly covering the state for ration law violations, including the bootlegging of coupons."

Lazenby declared also "while I can not believe Mr. Riddick made the statements which were attributed to him, if he was quoted correctly, I can only comment that his reference to bootlegging of gasoline ration coupons in the corridors of the ration board is totally and completely at variance with the truth."

Lazenby added that Riddick "has, on occasions, reported to me that bootlegging of gasoline existed in the county; and on one occasion reported to me the name of the actual violator. The statements attributed to Riddick occurred after the hearing which grew out of this alleged violation which was reported by him."

Shortage of Steel Predicted in House
WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—A serious shortage of steel, running into millions of tons, was reported as confronting the nation by Chairman Boykin (D-Ala.) of a House sub-committee which has been investigating the steel situation.

The sub-committee of the Merchant Marine committee was formed to inquire into the steel shortage in conjunction with the ship-building program.

The Alabama declared indications were that the shortage would persist even after the present steel expansion program was completed and he suggested that a partial solution might be in a co-ordinated program of local sponge iron development.

Attendance Drops In High Schools
BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, reported today that attendance figures in Maryland's high schools have shown a decline for the first time in ten years.

He said diminished attendance was noted seventeen of the twenty-three counties and that there were 859 fewer students enrolled last September than in the corresponding 1941 month.

Pullen attributed the decline to enlistments in the armed forces, employment in war industries and the need for farm help.

This Tax Business Worries Billy Conn

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 30 (AP)—Boxer Billy Conn said tonight he plans to dip into his "nest egg" of government bonds to pay Uncle Sam part of the $25,707.43 in tax he owes on his 1941 income.

"It will be a few thousand dollars," said Conn in declining to tell how much he intends to pay. The money had been invested in bonds for use after his fighting days are over.

Conn, a corporal in the army and boxing instructor at the New Cumberland, Pa., induction center, says he is "badly worried" about the income tax and is anxious to do some boxing.

"I don't know whether the army will let me fight or not," he said. "I'm worried about this tax business and want to pay it off, if I can. And I could if I could only fight once or twice."

Conn's scheduled meeting with heavyweight champion Joseph Louis last October 12 was cancelled by orders of the War department, when it was reported both he and Louis were to receive some money to pay personal debts to Promoter Mike Jacobs, after it had been announced all the money would go to service relief funds. He was here on a brief leave to visit his wife and their young boy.

World War No. 1 Ships for Scrap

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—From the charred hulls of between 125 and 150 wooden cargo carriers of World War I, now in four to six feet of water in Mallows Bay, Charles county, the War Production Board said it expected to reclaim approximately 20,000 tons of scrap metal.

Legal ownership of all but forgotten bottoms has been taken by the Metal Reserve Company, acting for the War Materials, Inc., a Reconstruction Finance Corporation affiliate. Jack Ewing of the WPB Special Projects Division said, "Contracts have been arranged for moving tons of steel and iron scrap, brass, lead and copper sheathing. Plans for dredging shallow basins large enough to accommodate four hulks, which will be dragged in by heavy duty tractors and cranes. An earth dam will enclose the basin, the hulls will be burned and the metal rushed by barge to steel mills."

Saroyan in Army; Will Write War Novel

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30 (AP)—William Saroyan took up the life of an army private today with the assurance that "now I'm going to write the greatest war novel—from the inside."

With a sweeping gesture toward his fellow soldiers boarding a train, he added, "You see, my career consists of people. This is people. War is people—intensified."

The 34-year-old writer from Fresno, who rose to literary heights with his "Man on the Flying Trapeze" and others, thought the army would be a fine experience for him. He said he had been fighting wars since he began writing, anyway, so "I'm an old campaigner."

Accidents Don't Happen, Dr. Fisher Declares

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—"There is absolutely not one thing accidental about accidents," Dr. H. E. Fisher of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, told the thirty-first National Safety Congress today.

"People who cuss their luck, blame the other fellow or dismiss accidents they may have by saying 'Oh well, accidents will happen,' are only cooking up alibis," Dr. Fisher said.

"Let's get down to cases: 'A driver has a few drinks, loses control of his car and crashes into a lamp post. Nothing accidental about that. Blame the liquor or blame his anti-social attitude that told him it was all right to drink, drive and thus jeopardize his own life and those of others. But don't call it an accident.'"

Consideration of the resolution was delayed at the request of Majority Leader Barclay (D-Ky). Barclay said only a small number of senators was present and that the resolution proposing a maximum appropriation of $5,000 had not been approved by the Audit committee.

"Suppose we do let them starve," Chavez told the Senate, "who is going to be blamed? We will be playing directly into the hands of the Axis."

Coach Bill Hahn's Fort Hill High Sentinels, undefeated and unscathed in five games this season, will attempt to protect both of these records when the high flying Hill-toppers engage the Handley High Judges of Winchester, Va., in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League clash this afternoon at 2:30 at the Fort Hill stadium.

The Sentinels are heavily favored to remain on the unbeaten track but may run into trouble when they attempt to keep their record on the defense intact. It was Handley which scored the first points against Allegany High's Campers a week ago when the Judges lost 46-6 for their second setback in three starts this season.

Coach Hunter Maddox reported last night that the Handley squad is in pretty fair condition with no injuries or sick leaves. The lineup is expected to be the same as last week.

The Judges opened their current campaign by lacing a weak Berkeley Springs outfit 19-0 but met disaster in the form of a 32-0 loss to Anacostia High of the Washington district in their next start. The wallowing at the hands of Allegany followed.

The Sentinels, marching along at the head of the city and CVAL parades, came out of last week's scrap with LaSalle in good condition although Warren "Chesky" Squires is still nursing a hip injury he received against Martinsburg's Bulldogs. George Evans probably will get the starting call instead of Squires at right halfback.

Rubber Game of Series

Coach Hahn indicated last night that a couple of other changes in the Fort Hill lineup are pending. Donald "Pats" Martin and Jim Wilkins, who showed up well in Sentinel practice sessions this week, may get the call to start in place of Right Tackle Dave Miller and Right Guard Ray Baker, respectively.

Joe Montelone, regular fullback who sat on the bench last week during the entire LaSalle battle with a sore hip, may see some action but isn't expected to start. His condition has improved but he still isn't in top playing shape.

By comparative scores, Fort Hill at least five touchdowns better than the Judges. The Sentinels bowled over Berkeley Springs, a team which lost by three touchdowns to Handley, by a 54-0 margin. Other Fort Hill victories were over Thomas 48-0, Martinsburg 27-0 and LaSalle 13-0. In their five games, the Hillmen have amassed the high total of 189 points, an average of 38 markers per contest.

The Fort Hill-Handley gridiron rivalry dates back to 1937 and in five meetings, Sentinel eleven have won two, the Judges two and the other ended in a scoreless deadlock.

Handley won the series inaugurated 28-13 and repeated the following season 40-0. In 1939, Fort Hill checked in a 21-7 decision and in 1940 squared accounts with another 21-7. Last year's tussle was a scoreless tie.

AHS at Charles Town

Coach Herman Ball's Allegany High Campers, who share the CVAL lead with Fort Hill as the result of their easy triumph over Handley last week, will travel to Charles Town, W. Va., tonight to meet the Purple Panthers under portable lights.

The West Siders will be striving for their fifth victory in a row and will be favored over the Panthers despite the fact Charles Town eleven have always given Allegany trouble.

Barney Mills, Charles Town's husky fullback who missed last week's game with Hagerstown, which the Panthers lost 7-0, is expected to be ready for tonight's encounter. Charles Town topped Romney 7-0 and Martinsburg 12-0 before losing to Hagerstown while Allegany holds a 47-0 victory over Ridgeley, a 45-0 triumph over Keyser and a 32-0 decision over an Alumni team in addition to its win over Handley.

Two more scholastic games appear on today's district slate. The Moorefield High Yellow Jackets, unbeaten in four games this season, will be conceded a wide edge over the West Virginia School for the Deaf aggregation at Romney in a game moved back from yesterday and Hagerstown and Martinsburg will collide in a CVAL scrap at Martinsburg, W. Va.

The Moorefield-Romney-Silents tussle was postponed to today so as

Lardner, after Settling Doubtful Point, Gives Week's Grid Winners

By JOHN LARDNER

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—In answer to thousands (999) of questions I would like to take this opportunity to state that it was the Poet Shakespeare, not me, who wrote "Hamlet."

Having settled this understandably doubtful point, let us proceed to the week's surefire football winners:

Can Northwestern win? I quote a line from Greek philosophy: "String along with Minnesota."

If you'd prosper, That's for me. I pick Army, and I grow.

Nervouser with every hour. Thinking back on what I know Of Pennsylvania's floating power:

Get in line, you Fort Worth wallers. Wait a while for Amos Carter; TCU is tough, but Baylor's slightly tougher, slightly smarter.

Polks, I think Wisconsin's fate. Calls for sorrow and desponding. What can stop Ohio State? Nothing but a sudden ending—x

(X—Don't cry "foul," boys. See the dictionary: Ongoing—A fall of rain or snow.)

Snatching freshmen from the cradle. Yale is on her way to town; Ellis infant-ry parade'll stop the gray-haired men of Brown.

Humm, The Uclans ought to lick Stanford. If you think that most games.

Nowadays are "hard to pick." How would you describe those coast games?

Boston college looks to be better than the Georgetown Hoyas (Don't waste time denouncing me. If I'm wrong, just see my Loyals.)

Alabama'll get a dressing—Down from Georgia's team, no doubt. (Who's that says I'm only guessing? Usher, throw the hoodlum out.)

Sure, I know that Illinois's Good. But I am gonna take an Other fling with Chrysler's boys; I can wait as long as they can.

Picking Notre Dame to beat Navy isn't patriotic. But a man has got to eat; Leave us not be too exotic.

California's team will bend Oregon's brave boys in two. And here's a little dividend: Texas over SMU.

Stealing bread from out the fangs Of my starving young papooses. I bet Jimmy Crowley's gang's Better than the Syracuse.

And now, in the contest for famished and baffled poets who are seeking a rhyme for Rutgers, in order to collect the Lardner trophy of one (1) dollar and the fame and movie contracts that go with it, let me issue a slight warning:

No "But Sirs"

I do not wish to be didactic, but this is the truth about rhymes: "But sir," or "but cur," or "nut fur"—none of them rhymes with Rutgers. They simply rhyme the two separate syllables of Rutgers, thereby destroying the rhyme. If there were such a word as "butgers" or "nutgers," it would be perfect.

I mention this point in order to give several contributors another chance, before the deadline of November 25. I wish to see their misguided gameness turned into the proper channels. Keep punching citizens.—North American Newspaper Alliance.

not to conflict with the Keyser-Romney tussle. The Yellow Jackets, tutored by Fred "Tack" Clark, have topped Franklin, LaSalle, Alumni and Ridgeley. The Silents have bowed to the West Virginia Industrial School of Pruntytown and Franklin.

Romney Gridders Register 34 to 0 Win over Keyser

Collette's Eleven Scores in Every Period of Conference Game

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 30.—Coach Chester "Chuck" Collette's Romney high footballers stayed in the Potomac Valley Conference title picture here this afternoon by romping to a 34-0 victory over Bob Kyle's Keyser High Golden Tornado eleven.

The winners scored in every quarter as big John Seitors and Junior Hamilton sparked an attack that produced a total of 406 yards from scrimmage and a dozen first downs. It was Romney's second straight triumph in the conference and its third in five games this season.

It was a humiliating defeat for Kyle, who before going to Keyser high this year turned out some strong teams and won a couple of conference championships while coaching at Romney high.

Romney scored all of its five touchdowns on long runs by Seitors, Hamilton or Ivan Shanholtz. In the first period, Seitors hit center for sixty yards and a six-pointer and Hamilton ran the extra point.

In the following stanza, the speedy and shifty Hamilton got into the clear on an end run and galloped sixty-five yards to score with Seitors converting on a plunge.

The third-period touchdown was the result of a twenty-three yard off tackle sprint by Hamilton, whose kick for the extra point was wide. In the closing heat, Shanholtz ran thirty-two yards and Hamilton got away on a seventy-three yard gallop for touchdowns with Seitors scoring the point following Shanholtz's tally.

Keyser was limited to three first downs and 113 yards from scrimmage. Romney completed two of five passes and Keyser three of twelve. An aerial, Sam Oglesbee to Davy, gave the Golden Tornado its longest gain of the afternoon—thirty-seven yards.

The Tornado gridmen, who will invade Moorefield next Friday to meet the Yellow Jackets in a conference scrap, have dropped four straight games and to make matters worse, today's visitors have yet to score their first point. The lineup:

Gamecocks Stop Citadel, 14 to 0

Bulldogs Shoved from Ranks of Undefeated and Untied Teams

ORANGEBURG, S. C., Oct. 30.—South Carolina's Gamecocks topped the Citadel's Bulldogs from the nation's undefeated and untied roster today, 14-0, in a Southern Conference game played before 10,000 fans at the Orangeburg county fair.

After three quarters of scoreless ball, South Carolina turned loose a powerhouse that swept through the Citadel line, upset the secondary and accounted for two touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

South Carolina's first touchdown was set up when Tom Marcinko, husky Citadel back, booted one of his twelve. It was taken by Ken Roskie, who returned to Citadel's thirty-eight where he was forced out of bounds. Earl Dunham snapped a long pass to Skimp Harrison who made eighteen yards to the Citadel twenty.

The next play was Glen Rice to Dunham to Harrison who shot a pass to Roskie, who plowed the last eleven yards through the Citadel secondary for the touchdown.

South Carolina sewed up the game a few minutes later after an exchange of punts and a pass interception. Marchenko faded back for a long pass on his thirty-three, but Louis Sosamon, Gamecock center, leaped high into the air on the Citadel's forty-eight, grabbed the ball and ran the sideline to the twenty-eight. On the next play "Mouse" Haisall shot a flat pass to Rice who galloped along the sideline to the score. Jack Kennan converted from placement after each touchdown.

Ohio State, Alabama and Army Are Picked To Keep on Winning

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(P)—We found all the answers to this week's football questions in a plate of restaurant hash—which probably explains the lack of meat in the selections.

Alabama over Georgia—The year's best example of what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object. Alabama's interchangeable lines have yielded only a single touchdown in five games. In six games Georgia has collected 184 points. But picking the Crimson Tide's defense and superior kicking to decide on a neutral field.

Ohio State over Wisconsin—Another all-winning cast with the Badgers slated to slip from the selected circle on the basis of the Purdue battle.

Army over Pennsylvania—The Cadets haven't been extended in piling up four straight wins and are suspected of having an as yet unrevealed passing attack.

Irish To Win for Leahy
Duke over Georgia Tech—Since those casualties have returned to the Blue Devil lineup they have won two games by lopsided scores.

Notre Dame over Navy—the Irish lads show Mr. Leahy how happy they are that he is back.

Boston college over Georgetown—The Bostonians are in the best position to be the East's all-winning club.

UCLA over Stanford—Figuring that the UCLA forwards will stop the reawakened Stanford backs.

Texas Christian over Baylor—The Horned Frogs to continue as the Southwest's major unbeaten club.

Louisiana State over Tennessee—Mainly off the 34 to 0 beating the Tigers gave the Georgia pre-flighters last week.

Princeton over Harvard—The Princetonians forsake their role as underdogs and have their best chance since 1935 to subdue the Johnnie Harvards.

William and Mary over Dartmouth—If for no other reason than that Harvey (Stud) Johnson will be in there to do the kicking.

Fordham over St. Mary's—The Ram coaches spent two weeks patching their line.

Tulane over Vanderbilt—Picking the Green Wave despite its sea-saw performances.

California over Oregon—The Bears have begun to live up to their pre-season ratings.

Minnesota over Northwestern—Invariably Northwestern gives the Gophers a rough afternoon and it will be no exception this year but Minnesota has started climbing again.

Colgate over Holy Cross—Doubt that the Crusaders can keep the edge displayed last week.

Bunching the rest: West Virginia over Penn State; Pittsburgh over Carnegie Tech; Auburn over Mississippi State; North Carolina over North Carolina State; Florida over Maryland; Wake Forest over Clemson; Virginia Tech over Virginia; Richmond over Washington and Lee; Oklahoma over Iowa State; Virginia Military over Davidson; Santa Clara over San Francisco; Utah over Colorado State; Colorado over Wyoming; Brigham Young over Utah State.

Sinkwich-Davis Pass Duo Clicks

Georgia's Combination Has Clicked for 410 Yards This Year

ATLANTA, Oct. 30.—(P)—Remember Alabama's famous touchdown combination, Dixie Howell to Don Hutson? Well, Georgia has built a better mousetrap—and the weather being willing, the Bulldogs hope to demonstrate tomorrow for 32,000 people and Bama's unbeaten, untied football team.

It's an act featuring Frankie Sinkwich, the All-America fireball, and "Race Horse" Lamar Davis, and it has clicked twelve times this season for a net gain of 410 yards and a half-dozen touchdowns. This equals the torrid pace set a few years ago by Messrs. Howell and Hutson, and may again eclipse their respective marks as Sinkwich and Davis did last season when Sinkwich was credited with eleven scoring pitches, and Davis with eight air-borne touchdowns.

Alabama, winner this season in five straight games, Louisiana, Mississippi State, Pensacola Naval Air Station, Tennessee and Kentucky, comes into the game a slight favorite, chiefly because of the Crimson Tide's great line. Defensively, Frank Thomas's team has yielded just one touchdown all season, and that was scored overhead by Mississippi State against Bama's third-stringers.

Ridgeley Trims Berkeley Outfit For Initial Win

Ed Bean Catches Two Touchdown Passes as Indians Bow 18-0

Striking pay dirt in three of the four periods, Coach Jesse Rigglesman's Ridgeley eleven eleven marched to its first victory of the 1942 season on its home gridiron yesterday, turning back the Berkeley Springs (W. Va.) High Indians 18-0.

Ed Bean, Ridgeley left end, was on the receiving end of two of Ridgeley's three touchdown passes. In the first period, the winners drove from their own forty to Berkeley's five and then Jim Phillips passed to Bean in the end zone. Phillips was stopped on a plunge for the extra point.

In the last stanza, Bean ran twenty-five yards after pulling in a short heave from Phillips for his other six pointer. Lloyd Coffman's kick for the point missed.

The other touchdown came in the second heat and also came via the air lanes with Bill Thompson passing to Fred Wilson for thirty yards and the tally. Coffman's kick for the point was no good.

The score could have been even more one-sided. In the second period, Ridgeley had one touchdown annulled by a penalty and a pass for another just missed as Bean caught the toss but had one foot out of the end zone.

In marking up their first victory following losses to Allegany, Port Hill, LaSalle and Moorefield, the Ridgeleyites made eight first downs and connected five of seven passes. Berkeley completed six of a dozen aerials and moved the first-down sticks six times.

Coach Rigglesman said that three more games appear on Ridgeley's schedule. Next Friday, Romney will be encountered at Ridgeley in a Potomac Valley Conference tussle. On November 13, Ridgeley will be host to the West Virginia School for the Deaf eleven of Romney and on November 20, Keyser will be met at Keyser in a postponed conference engagement. The lineup:

Pos.	No.	Ridgeley	Pos.	No.	Berkeley Springs
LT	1	Bean	LT	1	Barney
LT	2	Brooks	LT	2	Harrison
LT	3	Coffman	LT	3	Dille

Substitutes: Ridgeley—Whitaker, Hughes, Habaugh, Arrington, Coffman.

Wisconsin Threatens Buckeye Win Streak

Georgia-Alabama Clash Also Will Feature Program

Undeclared Army Faces Penn's Quakers--Notre Dame Meets Navy

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Saturday, Oct. 31, figures to be a pretty important day on the 1942 football calendar, especially since four of the six top ranking college eleven tangle in two of the nation's foremost games.

Ohio State, holder of the No. 1 spot for three successive weeks, meets sixth ranking Wisconsin at Madison in a clash between the two unbeaten Western Conference foes. Not only will the Buckeyes' position as the nation's ranking eleven be at stake but the game should go a long way toward helping settle the conference race. The Badgers' tie with Notre Dame is the only blot on either team's record.

The Southeastern Conference argument over whether Georgia or Alabama is the better team also comes to a showdown at Atlanta in another test of unbeaten eleven. In this week's ranking by the country's sports writers, Georgia was placed No. 2 and Alabama No. 3. It'll be Georgia's All-America, Frankie Sinkwich, against a Crimson team strong in power and reserves.

Army Faces Quakers

Undeclared Army is the only other member of the "Big Ten" to clash with one of the high ranking eleven. The Cadets, rated eighth, travel to Philadelphia to take on Pennsylvania's Quakers, whipped only by Georgia Pre-Flight and ranked fourteenth.

Notre Dame, whose comeback in the last two games earned the Irish the fourth spot, take on a week Navy outfit at Cleveland while Georgia Tech, rated fifth, moves out the Southeastern Conference to do battle with Duke's Blue Devils on the comeback trail after a poor start.

Boston College, No. 7 in the rankings and rolling along with a four-game winning streak, tackles always dangerous Georgetown. Texas Christian, whose sixty-minute men make the Horn Frogs the chief Southwest Conference threat, risks its No. 9 ranking against a week Baylor team and Minnesota, whose victory over Michigan moved the Gophers up to No. 10, plays host to Northwestern.

Maryland Plays Florida

The remainder of the schedule is studded with games that are mostly sectional in nature. In the East, there's Cornell-Columbia, William and Mary-Dartmouth, Brown-Yale, Colgate-Holy Cross, Lafayette-Bucknell, Carnegie Tech-Pittsburgh, Princeton-Harvard, Michigan State-Temple, St. Mary's (Calif.)-Fordham and North Carolina's Cadets-Syracuse.

The Southland offers Auburn-Mississippi State, Clemson-Wake Forest, Florida-Maryland, Davidson-V.M.I., L.S.U.-Tennessee, North Carolina-North Carolina State, Vanderbilt-Tulane, V.P.I.-Virginia and Washington and Lee-Richmond.

The Midwest presents, in addition to its leading attractions, Great Lakes-Missouri, Iowa-Cadets-Indiana, Nebraska-Kansas, Oklahoma-Iowa State and Oklahoma, A. and M.-Creighton. Down in the southwest, there'll be Southern Methodist and Texas while in the Rocky Mountain region Utah will tangle with Colorado State.

Oregon-California, Oregon State-Washington and St. Mary's Cadets-Washington State complete the West coast's major schedule.

Liner, 'Gator Clash To Be Battle of 'T's'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—An optimistic University of Maryland eleven and a favored Florida team will go into Griffith stadium tomorrow for a contest which stacks up as battle of "T's" formations.

The "Gators" will not arrive from Gainesville until tomorrow morning and may have a short warm-up at the stadium before noon, on hopes of throwing off the effects of the long trip from Gainesville.

Both Tom Lieb, Florida coach, and Clark Shaughnessy of Maryland are proponents of the "T" formation and both have used it with success.

The Maryland team was in good shape for the contest, excepting for the loss of Center Bill Byrd. The Old Liner center was put out of action by a tackle on the first play of the Western Maryland contest last week.

The Old Liners will concede an average of seven pounds per man to the 'Gators in the eleven meeting of the schools. The Florida outfit now holds a six-four edge.

Two Florida girls, now in Washington, will sponsor the Gators. They are Jane Mack of Miami and Cherry Mitchell of Lakeland.

The Round-Robin Show

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 30.—Football is no light matter in this bustling city. Especially with Atlanta packed with so many followers of Georgia Tech, Georgia and Alabama.

The Alabama-Georgia meeting is the first of three big games that should play a major part not only in the Southern, but in any national ranking.

Two weeks from today Alabama returns to Atlanta to face Georgia Tech. Two weeks later Georgia Tech travels to Athens for her Georgia Tech.

Quite a collection of football merchandise will be needed for any one of these teams to make it a clean sweep. The winner of the Alabama-Georgia contest will have a good, running start, but there still will be danger ahead from Bill Alexander's Ramblin' Wrecks, who are certain to be dangerous in every start with so much team speed.

South Strong

"I can't remember when the South had so many fine football teams," Frank Thomas of Alabama says. "Georgia and Georgia Tech are among the best. Alabama isn't weak. Tennessee and Louisiana State are both good. So is Duke, after a slow start because of injured stars but who are now back.

"Vanderbilt is no easy mark with a strong backfield on hand. Tulane, while in and out, can be extremely dangerous at any time. Don't overlook Mississippi State with Black and Blount around. Auburn certainly isn't bad. Neither is Clemson nor North Carolina. This may be the last big year in college football for some time, but the 1942 finish will be full of fireworks."

South and Midwest

Coach Thomas and Coach Wally Butts, Georgia maestro, have two of the best teams in the South, at least on a level with the picked teams of the Middle West—Ohio State, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Notre Dame and Illinois.

"After all," as Coach Butts sizes things up, "Georgia Tech went to South Bend and beat Notre Dame—and Notre Dame will give her opponents a pack of trouble from now on. That South Bend outfit is unusually strong, but it lacked Tech's speed.

"Fast, hard-running backs always have been plentiful in the South. I could mention such men as Sinkwich of our team, Craft of Alabama, Castleberry and Prokop of Georgia Tech, Cifers of Tennessee, Black of Mississippi State, Jenkins of Vanderbilt, Dart of L.S.U.—these, and many more.

"But this season also has produced many strong lines," Butts went on. "This has made the difference. I know, at Alabama, Georgia and Georgia Tech. That Alabama line is as big, as fast and as rugged as any you'll find. We have good line strength, and so has Georgia Tech—big, fast fellows who can move around. I think the pick of Southern teams would prove Bowling I've said in any coming Bowl games—no matter what the opposition is."

"Boston college won't be any romp," I suggested.

"I know how good they are," Butts said. "This, however, is no time to talk about any Bowl games, with Alabama and Georgia Tech still in our road. This series might easily wind up in a triple tie."

Only Disunity

The North and the South—Yankee Doodle and Dixie—are all together at last—except on one matter. That is football.

There will be over 5,000 soldiers at the Alabama-Georgia game, and most of them are entangled in hot debates about the comparative merits of football strength above and below the Mason-Dixon line.

You can throw most of these debates out. For example, Georgia is banking on Sinkwich of Ohio and Trippi of Pennsylvania. It must be admitted that more Northern boys head for the South than Southern players head for the North. To choke off any Southern

Occupation Goes After Turf Title At Pimlico Today

John Marsch's Colt Seeks Two-Year-Old Crown in Futurity

By DONALD SANDERS

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—John Marsch's good colt Occupation will seek to clinch the season's two-year-old championship tomorrow by winning the twentieth running of the $15,000 added Pimlico Futurity, with the speedy Count Fleet appearing to be the principal barrier.

A small field of four out of a group of 105 eligibles was named overnight to contest the mile and one sixteenth futurity, feature of an Army Emergency Relief day program at the Maryland Jockey Club layout.

If all four start, the winner's purse will total $31,220. If won by Occupation, it would make him the top money-winning two-year-old of all time.

Count Can Go Distance

The two likely starters besides Occupation and Mrs. John D. Hertz's Count Fleet were William L. Brann's Vincentine, winner of the Maryland Futurity at Laurel, and Walter M. Jeffords's Halbred, winner of the Saratoga Special.

While Occupation could lose the futurity and still make a strong bid for the juvenile championship, a victory for Count Fleet would make that one a strong favorite for the rich three-year-old purses next year.

The Count has shown ability to go a distance, notably when he ran the fastest mile ever traversed by a two-year-old in winning the Champagne Stakes at Belmont.

On the other hand, he has been beaten twice by Occupation, forcing the son of Bull Dog to his closest decision in the Washington Park Futurity.

Woolf To Ride Occupation

Occupation, arriving here early this week from Keeneland where last Saturday he won his fifth futurity—the Breeders'—has trained well for the longer distance of the Pimlico.

The Marsch colt has not raced at any distance longer than six and a half furlongs, but was impressive in his workouts over this strip.

George "The Iceman" Woolf will be aboard Occupation tomorrow and Johnny Longden will be on Count Fleet.

Jeffords is the only one of the four owners to have won the Pimlico Futurity previously, his Matey having gone home first in the 1936 renewal.

Maryland Sophomores, Freshmen To Stage Annual Tug-of-War

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 30 (AP)—University of Maryland freshmen, who have undergone three weeks of concentrated "ratting," will attempt to throw off the sophomore yoke tomorrow in the annual tug-of-war over Paint Branch creek.

If the frosh win, all hazing will be discontinued immediately, including the compulsory wearing of "rat" caps and black and gold neckties. If they lose, the freshmen have another week of hazing ending at noon Nov. 7.

Robert W. Davis of Yonkers, N. Y., will lead the fifty-man freshman crew while Edward M. Rider of Baltimore, sophomore class president, will lead his team. The judge will be student governor Ray Grelecki of Baltimore, All-America lacrosse player.

Mauriello Outpoints Savold in Garden

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Tami Mauriello outpointed the veteran Lee Savold of Des Moines in ten rounds at Madison Square Garden tonight and moved into the forefront of consideration as boxing's war-time "duration champion."

Mauriello weighed 164; Savold 191½.

The Bronx youngster, who has grown up in a midweight to a heavy weight—coming off the floor from a fifth-round knockdown and taking the last three heats to grab the unanimous but close verdict in a blood-and-thunder brawl from start to finish.

The late surge of the 22-year-old Italian earned him the nod on the Associated Press score card. Mauriello won six rounds and Savold, who now fights out of Paterson, N. J., took four.

At the Race Tracks

Sabath Stretch Runner Can Become Top Money Winner of '42

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Alasab reaches another important hurdle in his brilliant turf career tomorrow when he faces seven older rivals in the $25,000 Westchester handicap at Empire City.

Having established his supremacy over Whirlaway and broken even with Shut Out in four races, Mrs. Albert Sabath's little stretch runner will get his chance to become the top money winning horse of 1942 in the mile and three-sixteenth mile.

The Sab has earned $25,215 of his total winnings of $335,825 since first facing the barrier as a three-year-old in Florida last winter. But he bowed to Shut Out in the rich Kentucky Derby and Belmont stakes with the result Mrs. Payne Whitney's ace, now on the sidelines for the remainder of the year, picked up $238,972 although not as active in competition as the Chicago-owned horse.

Trailing the two money winning leaders with little chance to catch either of them are the two-year-old Occupation with $189,855 and Whirlaway, world's top money winning horse, with $188,675 for 1942. Occupation is entered in tomorrow's Pimlico Futurity but the race is not rich enough to permit John Marsch's juvenile to threaten either Shut Out or Alasab.

Alasab's chief opposition tomorrow figures to come from the Louisiana Farms' Riverland, and Tom Heard, Jr.'s Texas-owned Boy. Riverland finished first in eight straight races but was disqualified out of two purses before losing to Whirlaway at Laurel last week.

R. A. Coward's Marriage and A. J. Sackett's steady going Tola Rose also figure to be in the running with Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Doubtrair, William Woodward's Triearch and Mrs. Whitney's The Rhymer completing the field.

Empire City Entries

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities."

OFF ON THE RIGHT FOOT
IF YOU don't get off on the right foot—which in military marching means the left foot—you are likely to be out of step all the way. That is as true of bridge play as it is of parades. Probably more contracts are decided by the play on the first two or three tricks—by both the defense and the offense—than by what occurs on all the rest of them put together. Then is the time that the two sides make their plans and determine the general line of action for the rest of the route.

East, considering his own hand hopeless, decided not to lead his heart suit. He decided his partner's preference was probably for spades, so led the 4 of that suit, the 7 going on from dummy. West decided to keep his A to knock off the Q, so put in the 10, which the J won—making game sure for the declarer. He promptly sent the club Q to the K and West switched to the heart Q, the A winning.

Three clubs were cashed and the diamond K lost to the A. West, hoping his partner had the heart K, led the 7, but North took it and completed his game with three diamonds.

A bit of clear thinking by West could have beaten that contract. Thus: East would not have led spades with only a doubleton; hence he had exactly three, as North would not have bid No Trumps probably with a blank. North's singleton was undoubtedly an honor, either the K or J. In either event, the 2 would have forced it.

Had West put his spade 2 on that trick, then when he got the lead later with the club K, he could have settled it right there by leading his spade 5 to the K. East would have returned the 6 toward the A-10, producing two more spade tricks, and the diamond A would have made the setting trick. In brief, if West had made a plan to take five tricks, he would have done so.

Your Week-End Lesson

Any player knows that sometimes, when you have a good lead in your hand, such as a high honor sequence, or the bidding has indicated the best lead to be a trump, to impede a cross-ruff, you are justified in not opening your partner's suit. Under what other circumstances is it justifiable to open some different suit than his?

Airport Engineer Is Asked To Study Flood Control Here

Committee Criticizes Western Maryland Railway for Obstructions

Asserting that the mayor and city council "have put the problem in our laps," members of a committee for Cumberland flood control yesterday afternoon empowered Stanley Hillock, hydraulic engineer for the city's new airport, to "make as comprehensive a study as possible" of the local situation and make a report at another meeting to be held within a few weeks.

Hillock, who attended the meeting in Port Cumberland hotel, told persons attending that he knows "the job can be done."

Want Immediate Program
David Kauffman, local attorney who is chairman of the committee, pointed out that the group is looking for an "immediate program. We've got to have something by next spring."

The Western Maryland Railway Company was the target of much criticism and was blamed for considerably contributing to flood conditions here because of obstructions erected by the company on both the Potomac river and Wills creek.

Kauffman said that a legal committee will be appointed to study group suits against the railway company and other obstructions.

Criticize Railroad Bridge
Members of the committee particularly criticized the type of bridge erected by the railway company at Baltimore street and the fills at Knobley and Weltman tunnels but, one committee member declared "it is chiefly a Western Maryland problem from the Narrows to Weltman tunnel."

According to Kauffman, members of the committee will vote at the next meeting on plans to be submitted and then a definite program will be mapped out for submission to the mayor and city council.

Members of the chamber of commerce flood committee will be asked to attend the next meeting.

SERVICE MEN, HOME ON FURLOUGH, CAN OBTAIN SUGAR

Sugar rations for personnel of the United States Army, Navy or Marine Corps home on furlough has been set at half pound a week, according to Daniel F. McMullen, chairman of local War Price and Rationing Board No. 1-1.

Previously in such cases the sugar certificates issued to service personnel were given the same weight value as was assigned to the stamp valid for the ration period in which application for the certificate was made.

Now, however, with Stamp No. 9 given a value of three pounds for a month and a half period, application of the former rule for furloughed military personnel would result in granting unduly large amounts of sugar, since a month and a half civilian ration might be given to a service man whose leave was no more than ten days.

Another change announced by McMullen permits a service man whose furlough is only a week to obtain sugar. Heretofore, leave had to extend more than a week before he was eligible. Moreover, the full weekly half-pound allowance will be made for any fraction of a week over one.

Sugar certificates are available to service men on furlough at local War Price and Rationing Board No. 1-1, Union Street County building.

BOY IS SLIGHTLY HURT WHEN STRUCK BY CAR ON MECHANIC STREET

James Dietrich, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Dietrich, 602 North Centre street, was slightly injured at 5:45 p. m. yesterday when he was struck by the automobile operated by William Crites, Long.

Officer J. C. Stouffer said the boy darted from Pear street in front of the car Crites was driving on North Mechanic street. The boy was knocked to the street. Crites stopped immediately and took him to Allegheny hospital for treatment.

Attaches there said he suffered head injuries and bruise burns and was discharged after treatment.

Stouffer said no charges were entered against Crites.

Reckless Driving Charge Dismissed

John E. McDonald Transferred from Kelly to Akron

Chemist of Tire Company Honored by Fellow Workers at Dinner

Sixty fellow workers of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and the Kelly-Springfield Engineering Company held a dinner last night at Queen City hotel in honor of John E. McDonald, LaVale, chief chemist at the tire company for the past fourteen years.

McDonald has been transferred to the synthetic rubber division of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company at Akron, Ohio, and will assume his new duties there next week.

McDonald for a number of years has been a familiar figure on local gridirons as referee and umpire at high school football games. He is a former fullback on the eleven of the University of Maryland.

McDonald is well known as a vocalist and for a number of years sang in a quartet in the First Presbyterian church here. He has also been active in several local organizations.

Speakers at the dinner last night, where McDonald was presented a gold watch from his associates, included R. M. Hudak, toastmaster, Lloyd F. Keller, Raymond T. Bete, James C. Warden and Samuel Doolley.

McDonald started to work at the Kelly in 1928 as a chemist and several years ago was placed in full charge of that department.

Dealers Will Be Able To Increase Stocks of Tires

New Regulations Are Announced Here by Local Rationing Board

Steps to enable dealers to increase their stocks of passenger car tires in order to be ready to make consumer sales when the new mileage rationing program becomes effective November 22, were announced yesterday by local War Price and Rationing Board No. 1-1.

Under the new regulations which are a part of the government's rubber conservation program, dealers may acquire stocks of new tires made of reclaimed rubber, and recapped and used tires for sale to motorists who have received ration certificates from their local ration board.

Rationing of the tires is a part of the government's plan to keep the nation's passenger cars rolling for their essential mileage.

Many dealers do not now have adequate stocks of tires of this kind — defined as Grade No. 3 tires in the rationing regulations. Before yesterday's change, there was no way for them to increase the size of their inventories by purchases from their regular jobbers because for every tire they bought they had to turn over the replenishment portion of a rationing certificate collected from a purchaser.

New tires made of reclaimed rubber are now in production for the rationing program. Forms on which dealers may apply for Grade No. 3 allotments will be available at the local War Price and Rationing Board No. 1-1 in the Union Street County building.

Action on Leasing Airport to Hyde Is Deferred

Will Try To Find Solution for Financing Construction of Hangars

Plans for leasing the new Cumberland airport to Maj. Arthur Hyde, wing commander of the Maryland Civil Air Patrol, for use in training aviation cadets of the armed forces has been deferred until at least January, it was announced by Mayor Thomas Conlen, yesterday afternoon.

Mayor Conlen and members of the city council conferred with Maj. Hyde yesterday and all agreed that the airport would have to wait until a solution could be made for financing construction of hangars and other facilities at the airport.

In the meantime, Maj. Hyde told the city officials that he will go ahead with negotiations with the federal government on establishing an aviation school here. Maj. Hyde now operates several other schools in the Washington, D. C. area.

Stanley Hillock, project superintendent for the WPA at the airport, attended the session and he explained matters pertaining to procedure of the WPA insofar as construction of hangars and other facilities are concerned. Others who attended were members of the Cumberland Airport committee, Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, and Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney.

Cumberland Boy Critically Hurt; Ran against Auto

Gary Lee Davis, 6, Is Injured while on Errand for Mother

A Cumberland boy was in a critical condition in Allegheny hospital last night from injuries suffered when he ran against the side of an automobile at the intersection of Baltimore avenue and Decatur street at 5:20 p. m. yesterday.

Attaches at Allegheny hospital where the boy was taken for treatment, said he is Gary Lee Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Davis, 16 North Waverly terrace.

The boy is suffering from compound fractures of his right leg and thigh, described as a crushing injury, and shock. He was given a blood transfusion last night.

Officer J. C. Stouffer, who investigated, said the driver of the car is Richard N. Nuse, 38 Race street. He was released by the state's attorney pending outcome of the boy's injuries.

Nuse told Stouffer that he was driving west on Baltimore avenue when Davis darted across the street, from the south to the north side, and ran against the left rear fender of the car. He had just come down the concrete steps from Waverly terrace to Baltimore avenue on an errand for his mother.

According to Stouffer, the boy was knocked to the street. Nuse stopped his automobile immediately and took him to the hospital.

Beer, Whisky, "Juke" Boxes and Coin Gaming Devices Also Included

New Federal taxes will become effective tomorrow and Monday.

The tax on cigarettes will be increased to eight cents a package, the tax on beer goes up from $7 to $8 a barrel and the increase in the tax on whiskey will amount roughly to fifty cents a quart.

There will be a tax on amounts paid for the transportation of persons by rail, motor vehicle, water or air, and on berths and seats furnished in connection with such transportation will be increased to ten per cent of the amount paid.

Taxes on telegraph, cable or radio dispatches will be upped from ten to fifteen per cent; taxes on telephone toll charges of twenty-five cents or more will be increased to a straight twenty per cent of the rate and the tax on local telephone service is increased from six to ten per cent.

Explains Telephone Tax
Robert L. Schleunes, manager of the Cumberland office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, last night explained how the telephone tax works.

For instance if a subscriber's bill amounts to $3 a month he will be taxed ten per cent (thirty cents) and his total bill will be $3.30. For each toll charge under twenty-five cents a ten per cent tax is levied and for each toll charge of twenty-five cents or more the tax will be twenty per cent.

Fares thirty-five cents and over will be taxed ten per cent instead of five as at present. A local bus company official pointed out that this does not affect commutation tickets as none of local bus routes are over thirty-five miles in length.

"Juke" Boxes Included
"Juke" boxes and all coin-operated amusement machines will be brought under the law now covering the so-called "pin-ball" games, and a flat tax of $10 a year a machine becomes effective.

Tax on coin-operated gaming devices is increased from $50 to $100 a year.

The rate of the manufacturers' excise tax on lubricating oil is increased from four and one-half to six cents a gallon.

Many firms will take inventory of their floor stock at the close of business tonight as the tax applies to the items on hand as of midnight, October 31.
